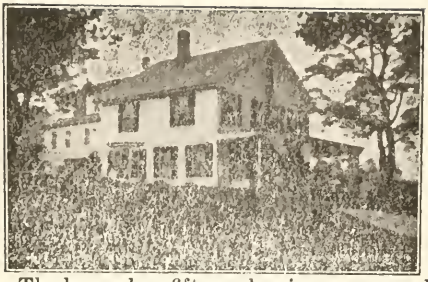
INTRODUCTION

In compiling this historical account of the towns included in this work, we have not attempted to write a history which would be comprehensive even to the most minute details, but rather with a realization of the limitations of a register of this kind, to condense the most important data, and to give to the people of these towns a ready reference register which would be found useful in the majority of the homes.

We wish to acknowledge our indebtedness for data to the "History of New England," the "History of Merrimack County," the local histories of Henniker and Warner, the "New Hampshire Register," and all other sources of information. We take this opportunity also to thank the town officers and all others who rendered generous assistance and aided in making the undertaking successful, and we hope that they will find the Register, even if it contain some errata, a work which will be of interest and value.



THE ADAMS HOUSE

The house has fifteen sleeping rooms, all pleasant, with beautiful outlooks in every direction. There are wide roomy piazzas on three sides of the house, and the air is always cool and health giving.

There are electric lights, bath rooms, open plumbing, and telephone connections.

The place is quiet and restful, and yet is not out of the world. Eight trains arrive and leave the town daily. The prices are reasonable. Correspondence is solicited.

INDIAN ACCOUNT

The native tribes of New Hampshire were all of the Abnaki nation, but probably had a separate government and were independent of the Indians who lived in what is now the State of Maine. They were divided into several clans or tribes, among which were the Agawoms, the Wamesits or Pawtuckets, the Nashuas, the Sanhegans, the Namaoskeags, the Penawaks and the Winnepesankees, all of whom lived in the vicinity of the Merrimack river.

The most powerful of the Indians were the Penacooks, who occupied the land in the vicinity of Concord; but with the changes of time, war, emigration, and other influences, those who lived in this vicinity were merged into one tribe, and were called Penacooks. This region was their hunting and fishing ground, and the forests which covered the lands, now included within these towns, were doubtless penetrated by trails from the Merrimack to the Connecticut, and perhaps often rang with the war whoops of hostile bands on their journeys to or from the scene of bloodshed and war with the Mohawks.

Namaoskeag was the site of their principal village, as the large number of Indian relics found there indicate, and this was also the place where the ancient Sagamores of the Penacooks resided and sat in state. There were other smaller settlements along the Merrimac as far as the Sanhegan river; and in Bedford, on Carthagena Island, opposite the mouth of the Coos River, traces of Indian villages might be seen for many years after this section was settled by the white men.

The most famous Sagamores among the Penacooks were Passaconaway, Wonnalamet, his son, and Kamamagus, called also John Hodgkins, his grandson. Passaconaway was one of the greatest chiefs among all the Indian tribes of New Hampshire. He was a powerful warrior, a mighty medicine man, whom the redmen regarded with veneration and awe, and a Sagamore who exerted a very great influence upon his people. He was friendly to the settlers, and lived on terms of intimacy with them, notwithstanding their oftentimes unjust usurpation of his lands, and his wish was that both races might be friendly, and that all strife between them might cease. "Peace—peace with the white man!—is the command of the Great Spirit; and the wish—the last wish of Passaconaway."

After the massacre at Dover, in June 27, 1689, in which Major Waldron was brutally murdered, that awful struggle which Whittier has commemorated in his famous

"When the Indian hordes came down
At midnight on Cocheco town."— the indians for the most part retired from this state, and the ancient capital of the Pennacooks became almost deserted. The attrocities and depredations which the settlers suffered during the next century were mostly at the hands of the Indians from Canada, who had allied themselves with the French.

The place at Namaoskeag was occupied as late as 1745, by one Indian named Christian, who was employed by the English during the Indian wars as a scout, and later followed his countrymen to St. Francis. He was hostile to the English in later years. The last heard of him was in 1757, when he was at St. Francis where probably he died.

Thus the Indians of New Hampshire departed from this region forever, swept away by the superior strength and numbers of the white conquerors and by the advance of civilization. They claimed the land as God-given-soil bequeathed to them by the great spirit and entrusted to their care. They fought stubbornly to defend their homes from the encroachment of the white men, and though their methods of welfare were terrible and cruel, and to our minds, cowardly in the extreme, we must concede that they were savages, and as such made war in their own way. But the redman is gone. It was inevitable that he should, and that a superior race of men should take his place; it was demanded by the laws of progress. The wild beasts, too, are gone, they who shared the wilderness with the redman, and the forests that sheltered both have melted away. So the little settlements on the Contoocook, the Warner and in all this section, with their crude log houses and primitive mode of life have given way to the towns of today; the little clearings of the settlers have been replaced by well tilled farms; the wagon roads of a century ago are now marts of traffic, and above the low-toned roaring of the waterfalls is heard the whirr of machinery in the factories along the river banks, or perhaps the rumble of a train.

Industrial and commercial activity have taken the place in men's thoughts of those of war and bloodshed that stirred their fathers only a few centuries ago, and everywhere is manifest the onward march of progress attesting the changes of the years.

History of Henniker

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

Henniker, in the southwest corner of Merrimack County, New Hampshire, is a township of about twenty-seven thousand acres of land surface, one-fifth of which is covered with water. It is bounded on the east by Hopkinton, on the north by Warner and Bradford, on the south by Deering and Weare, and on the west by Hillsborough; and lies fifteen miles west from Concord, twenty-seven north from Amherst, twenty-five northwest from Manchester, and thirty-four east from Keene.

The surface of Henniker is comparatively even, the only eminence of note being Craney Hill, lying on the south side of the township, where are to be found some of the best farms in the town. The whole of the township, in fact, is of a fertile character, and in that respect is second to none in the county.

The Contoocook River, which divides the town into nearly equal portions, is a circuitous stream, which presents scenes of beauty and uncommon attractions to the lover of Nature, and gives abundant and excellent water power to the manufacturing industries which have contributed so largely to Henniker's prosperity.

In addition to the river, the town is well watered by smaller streams, and there are several ponds of large size, the principal of which is Long Pond, which is situated a mile and a half north of Henniker village, and is between one and two miles long and from forty to eighty rods wide. Middle, Upper, Whitaker. French's, Buxton's, Morrill's, Mud, Clough and Pleasant ponds are the other bodies of water.

The scenery of the town as a whole is very beautiful. Traversed by chains of low-lying hills, the valley of the tortuous Contoocook, and the river itself, with the magnificent views presented from the summit of Craney Hill and lesser elevations, Henniker attracts many summer visitors seeking recreation and rest.

The principal villages are Henniker and West Henniker, neat, well-laid out and delightfully attractive. Henniker is connected by the Boston & Maine Railroad with Concord, Manchester, and points to the west.

The population in 1900 was 1507.

EARLY PROPRIETARY AND SETTLEMENT.

In 1690 the colonies in New England and New York, aroused by the atrocities committed by the French and Indians upon the inhabitants of some of the frontier towns the previous years, organized two expeditions to invade and if possible conquer the province of Canada, in retaliation for the unprovoked indignities to which the settlers in the frontier towns had been subjected.

New York sent a land expedition against Montreal, Massachusetts, a naval force against Quebec. The latter was an entire failure, because of the fortifications of the city, and an inadequate besieging force.

The soldiers in this expedition were paid for their services in paper money, the first ever seen in New England, which soon became so depreciated in value as to be almost worthless.

Nearly forty years later, the surviving soldiers petitioned the Massachusetts General Court for an additional compensation for services in grants of lands. These petitions were generally granted and eight townships in New Hampshire, from territory claimed by Massachusetts, were granted the petitioners.

One of the companies in the expedition of 1690 was composed of men from Middlesex and Worcester Counties, Massachusetts, under the command of Capt. Andrew Gardner. A large number of the men of Capt. Gardner's company were from Stowe, Marlborough and Westborough, Mass., who, headed by John Whitman, Esq., petitioned the court in 1728 for a grant of land six miles square. After various delays, in 1735, the petition was granted, the committee caused the necessary survey to be made, and this township, known then as No. 6, was assigned to John Whitman, Esq., and others of Stowe and Marlborough.

The petitioners met at Concord, Mass., in September, 1737, at which time sixty grantees were admitted. These petitioners were well advanced in years when the grant was made, for nearly half a century had passed since the ill-fated expedition against Quebec.

John Whitman was a grandson of John Whitman of Weymouth, Mass., who settled in New England before 1633, and was the ancestor of the Whitman family in America. John Whitman, Esq., settled in Stowe, Mass., about 1675-80, and became a prominent man there. He was the immediate ancestor of Henniker Whitmans. He died shortly after receiving the grant.

A few settlers came into the township, and a Mr. Crane with a large family resided on the north shore of the pond south of Craney Hill, which was doubtless named for him. He and the other settlers, however, were driven from the town by the Indians. None of the grantees of the township ever settled here, being deterred probably because of the dispute between Massachusetts and New Hampshire as to the boundary line which was not settled until 1740; and later by the French and Indian War, which followed so soon after the boundary settlement. By the terms of the settlement New Hampshire received Henniker and the towns in this section, which later came into the possession of the heirs of Captain Mason, and then into that of a company of residents of Portsmouth and vicinity who were known afterwards as the Masonion proprietors.

On the sixteenth of July, 1752, James and Robert Wallace and others of Londonderry obtained a grant of this township under the name of number 6.

The surveyors employed were Matthew Patten of Bedford, and Daniel Leslie of Londonderry.

Preparations were made at once for erecting a saw mill and beginning the settlement, paths were cleared and operations commenced, but the French and Indian War suspended the settlement for years. Up to 1761, no permanent settlement had been made in the township. In that year James Peters, the only one of the proprietors who settled here, came with his family from Hopkinton and erected a log house for a dwelling. In the spring of the previous year, Rev. James Scales, who had come into possession of some land in the easterly part of the township, had built a log cabin under the hill known as Foster Hill. He was a resident of Hopkinton at that time. He lived in the log dwelling only a few months, at the end of which time he disposed of his claim and returned to Hopkinton.

Mr. Peters, therefore, was without any doubt the first permanent settler in Henniker. His nearest neighbors were on Putney's Hill in Hopkinton, and there was no mill or store nearer than Rumford, fifteen miles to the east. A few families had settled in Hillsborough, but on the north stretched an unbroken forest for fifty miles. In this wilderness Mr. Peters made his home, the pioneer of Henniker.

In June, 1763, Eliakim Howe, Amos Gould and Thomas Stone came here from Marlborough, Mass. They settled in the southeast part of the township, where in September of the same year, they were joined by Jonas Bowman of Lexington, Mass., who took up his residence near by. The same year, too, William Peters, a son of James, the first settler, moved from Hopkinton and settled near his father in the same section of this town. He was killed by a falling tree July 5, 1775.

Josiah Ward came with his family from Marlborough, Mass., in September, 1763. In 1764, Deacon Ebenezer Harthorn came from Marlborough, Mass., and was the thirteenth settler in the township. The next year (1765), Annas Campbell came from Hawke (Danville) and became a large property owner. He erected the first two story frame house in the town, in 1766, Deacon Harthorn erecting the second in 1768. The first frame house in town was one, a story and a half in height in front, with a long, slanting roof on the back side, extending nearly to the ground, built by Eliakim House. In 1765, Alexander Patterson came with his family, which included his sons, Joseph and Isaac, who settled on what is known as "Goss Hill." Ezra Tucker of Marlborough, Mass., and his family came that year also, and settled in the west part of the town. Cornelius Bean settled near the Tuckers during the same year.

In 1764, Charles and Jacob Whitcomb, Timothy and Jesse Ross, and Frances Withington, all of Stowe, Mass., moved into the settlement. In 1766, their townsman in Stowe, William Presbury, settled in the southwest part of the town, where he resided a few years. Later, he removed to Bradford, where he was the first settler in town. During the same year, too, the Gile brothers, Ebenezer, Noah, and Joshua, came from Marlborough, Mass., and settled in the southeast part of the town. Ezekiel Smith and Solomon Childs came from Grafton, Mass., Hezekiah Newton, Marlborough, Mass., and, Ephiam Merrill, from Stowe. The Tylers, Adonijah and Jephthah, came from Marlborough in 1767. Thomas Howlett came from Stowe in 1766; also William Powers from the same town, and William Eastman in 1765. David Connor settled in the northeast part of the township in 1766. Silas Barnes came from Marlborough. Ephraim Goss came from Lancaster, Mass., in 1767; and Samuel Wadsworth came from Grafton, Mass., the following year. Abraham Morrison and Moses Duston came from Hopkin in 1768, and Moses Huse in 1766.

The following were residents with their families at the time of the incorporation of the town in 1768: Rev. Jacob Rice, Deacon Ebenezer Harthorn, Captain Eliakim Howe, Ezekiel Smith, Thomas Stone, Amos Gould, Moses Huse, Ezra Tucker, John Johnson, Adonijah Tyler, Jephthah Tyler, James Peters, William Peters, Josiah Ward, Charles Whitcomb, Jacob Whitcomb, Timothy Ross, Jesse Ross, Ebenezer Gile, Joshua Gile, Francis Withington, Silas Barnes, Thomas Pope, Jonas Bowman, Alexander Patterson, Samuel Powell, Annas Campbell, William Powers, William Presbury, Moses Duston, William Eastman, David Connor—thirty-two families. Ephraim Goss and Samuel Wadsworth were young men about to be married. The first child born in the township was Persis, daughter of Capt. Eliakim and Rebecca Howe, December 3, 1763. She married Fortunatus Wheeler and settled in Hillsborough.

The town grew in numbers fairly rapidly, and when the first census was taken, in 1775, the population was found to be three hundred and sixty-seven; in 1783, there were seven hundred and forty-nine inhabitants. During these years many of the most influential men of the town settled here, including the Wallaces of Londonderry, the Gibsons, the Rices, and the Wards from Westborough, Mass., and vicinity, the Sawyers, Cloughs, Adams, Kimballs, Bowman and others.

Other early families were: Alley, Breed, Brown, Chase, Connor, Cogswell, Colby, Dodge, Darling, Foster, Gove, Gould, Goodnow, Gordon, Harriman, Howe, Huntington, Kimball, Livingston, Merrick, Marsh, Morse, Morrison, Newton, Noyes, Page, Patten, Pearson, Pillsbury, Proctor, Plummer, Ray, Rogers, Simmons, Temple, Trachem, Tucker, Whitney, Wilson, Whitman, Wood, Woods.

INCORPORATION.

In 1768, the township having become settled in various places a move was made for an act of incorporation, which was secured under date of November 10, 1768. The petition for the incorporation of the town was signed by the following: William Eastman, Jacob Whitcomb, Amos Gould, Jesse Ross, Ezekiel Smith, Daniel Willson, Eliakim How, David Pope, David McKillip, Ebenezer Haathorn, Josiah Ward, William Powers, Joshua Tyler, Jephthah Tyler, Hezekiah Newton, Thomas Pope, William Peters, Ezekiel Stone, Adonijah Tyler, Jonas Bowman, William Presbury, Joseph Williams, Silas Barnes, James Joslin, Timothy Ross, John Johnson.

Captain Eliakim Howe proposed that the name of the new town be New Marlborough, in honor of Marlborough, Mass., from which town and vicinity so many of the early settlers came; but Governor Wentworth named it for his friend, John Henniker, Esq., a wealthy merchant of London.

The first meeting of the inhabitants of the incorporate town was held November 25, 1768. Silas Barnes was chosen town clerk, and Ebenezer Gile, William Presbury and James Bowman selectmen. The first annual meeting was held March 6, 1769, when Amos Gould was chosen clerk, and Ebenezer Gile, Eliakim Howe, and Ebenezer Harthorn, selectmen.

MILITARY HISTORY.

Settled a number of years before the Revolutionary War, at the time of the outbreak of the great struggle, Henniker had become a prosperous and growing community. The settlers were loyal patriots, sturdy adherents to the American cause, and eager to take part in the suppression of the injustice and indignities to which the colonies had been subjected.

When news of the fight at Lexington, April 19, 1775, reached this town, several of the settlers like the great Israel Putnam of song and story, responded at once to the call for aid, leaving their plows in the furrow and their oxen unyoked that they might render assistance to their countrymen and strike a blow for freedom. One man who was mending fence, lay down his axe, and seizing his gun hastened at once to the scene of conflict never to return, for he lost his life at Bunker Hill, not long afterward.

The following men, twenty-one in number, were in Captain Hutchins' company and General Stark's brigade, and served at the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775: Alexander Patterson, James Dunlap, John Gordon, John Stone, Samuel Eastman, Cornelius Bean, Joseph Marsh, Charles Whitcombe, Elijah Rice, George Bemain, Samuel Wadsworth, Amos Gould, Isaac Patterson, James Carr, James Palmer, John Barnes, James Stone, Joseph Clough, Abraham Kimball, Ephraim Goss, and James Reed. Of this list of men, Alexander Patterson and Abraham Kimball were wounded.

The following named men were in the battle of Bennington, August 16, 1777: Capt. Jonas Bowman, Sergt. Peter How, Sergt. Joshua Gile, Thomas Pope, Jonathan Eastman, Corp. Moses Smith, Sargent Heath, William Heath, Zacariah Bowman, Ezekiel Stone, David Colby, Zadok Bowman, Jabez Alexander, Samuel Eastman, Abraham Kimball, Levi Colby, Lemuel Ross, Isaac Patterson, Moses Powell, James Duston, Levi Harriman, John Putney, Joshua Whitney. Four men from Henniker took part in the battle of Monmouth, N. J., June 28, 1778—Jesse Campbell, Joseph Marsh, James Peters, Jr., and Daniel Squire.

The people of Henniker were practically a unit upon the main question of defending their homes, and supporting the cause of liberty, and were represented in most of the important conflicts of the war. So frequent were the calls for men that at one time there was hardly an able-bodied man left in the town except the Rev. Mr. Rice, who was a staunch patriot himself and one of the foremost here in aiding the American cause. Few towns, if any in this State, can show a better record in the war proportionate to the population than can the town of Henniker.

War of 1812.

In this, the second war with England, fully one hundred Henniker men bore an honorable part. They enlisted together, large numbers of them under different commanders, and served in various places. Two of the men of the town were in the regular army when the war broke out, and were in the battle of Tippecanoe, November 7, 1811. Not only those liable for military duty were ready to be enlisted, but those who were exempt from service formed themselves into a company and volunteered their aid.

Mexican War.

One man from this town was a grenadier in a company composed of the men of greatest height, selected from the Ninth Regiment, U. S. Infantry, which was recruited in New England and commanded by Col. T. B. Ransom of Vermont. Two other Henniker men enlisted in another company in the same regiment, one of whom was killed at Chapultepec.

Henniker in the Rebellion.

The outbreak of the great Civil War found the citizens of Henniker as ready and willing as were their fathers in earlier wars to take the field, and render all the assistance in their power to our country in the time of her peril and need.

One of the first men to enlist when the call was made for volunteers to fill the ranks of the First Regiment was Enoch W. Goss, who was employed as a machinist in Concord at the time. He was commissioned second lieutenant in Co. I of the First Regiment N. H. Vols., later first lieutenant of Co. K., Thirteenth Regiment, and was afterwards promoted to the captaincy of Co. I. He was killed October 27, 1864, in Virginia, while in command of a battalion of sharpshooters attached to the First Division of the Eighteenth Army Corps. The following is the roll of Henniker men in the Union armies: The letter is that of the company:

First N. H. Regiment: Capt. E. W. Goss (T).

8 Men were paid $1,000 each,	8,000
3 Men were paid $200 each,	600
Total amount paid,	$35,675

Of the number of men who enlisted for Henniker, thirty lost their lives, and of the thirty-one men from this town in the Eleventh Regiment when it left the State, only nine were present when it was mustered out of service.

ECCLESIASTICAL ACCOUNT.

In accordance with terms specified in the grant of this township the proprietors held a meeting in May, 1766, at which it was voted to raise half a dollar on each right in the township to hire preaching for the town, and in June, 1767, it was "voted to raise six shillings on each right for the supply of the gospel for the year ensuing." In the summer of 1768, the settlers having subscribed a sum of money to hire a preacher, Captain Eliakim Howe, secured the services of Rev. Jacob Rice of Northborough, Mass., who was a relative of his, to preach to the people here. Several meetings were held at the houses of Silas Barnes and Captain Howe, and at a meeting of the settlers, September 12, 1768, Mr. Rice was invited to become their settled pastor.

Terms were agreed upon by the minister and the settlers, as to the salary and so forth, and on the seventh of June, 1769, a council was convened and a church formed consisting of nine male and six female members over whom the Rev. Mr. Rice was duly ordained pastor. The church covenant, adopted and signed by all the members continued in use without amendment or change, until April 1, 1835, a period of sixty-five years.

The first meetinghouse was built in 1770 and burned ten years later.

In the spring of 1773, Mr. Rice was taken ill, and after that on account of impaired eye sight and general health he was able to occupy the pulpit only a part of the time until his dismissal February 20, 1782. The second meetinghouse was erected in 1786 and 1787. After Mr. Rice's dismissal the church was supplied with preaching somewhat irregularly for many years. Efforts to secure a settled pastor were unsuccessful, but at a meeting of the town held August 12, 1801, Rev. Moses Sawyer was invited to become pastor of the church. More than one-third of the voters of the town dissented from the vote, and another meeting was held December 9, 1801, to reconsider. This was not done, although the majority in favor of the settlement of Mr. Sawyer was small. In consequence of the large number of people opposed to settling Mr. Sawyer, his friends determined to separate church from State, and on the same day formed themselves into a society to be called "The Calvinistic Congregational Society of Henniker." Over this society Mr. Sawyer was regularly ordained May 26, 1802. Those dissatisfied with Mr. Sawyer held another town meeting and voted unanimously to give the Rev. Pliny Dickerson a call; but he did not accept and that was the last effort which they made to settle any minister.

Congregational Church.

The Congregational Society erected a new meetinghouse in 1804, dedicated in 1805. The Rev. Moses Sawyer, having been ordained pastor of the society, continued to minister to the people here for nearly twenty-four years, closing his pastorate about April 9, 1826. In January of 1827, Rev. Jacob Scales of Colchester, Vt., was ordained pastor of the church, and continued to labor here for twelve years, until his dismissal, January 2, 1839.

The next pastor, Rev. Eden B. Foster, of Hanover, received a unanimous call to the church, accepted it and was ordained August 17, 1841. He was dismissed at his own request January 7, 1847, and December 1, 1847, Rev. Richard T. Searle was ordained, and was dismissed February 1, 1850. Succeeding pastors have been: Rev. J. M. R. Eaton of Fitchburg, Mass., Feb. 6, 1851-May 14, 1868; Rev. Stephen S. Morrill of Hillsborough, Sept. 1, 1870-Aug. 18, 1873; Rev. Geo. H. Moss of Townsend, Mass., Nov. 21, 1873-July 30, 1876 (not settled pastor); Rev. John H. Hoffman, commenced preaching for the church June 10, 1877, ordained August 27th of the same year, pastor June 7, 1878-Oct. 6, 1884; Rev. F. L. Allen of White River Junction, the next pastor, remained about ten or eleven years; Rev. T. C. H. Bouton, 1898-1900; Rev. A. F. Walker, 1901-2, and the present pastor, Rev. F. A. Balcom, who came about the year 1903.

During the first one hundred years from the organization of the church more than five hundred persons became members.

The present meetinghouse was erected in 1834, and dedicated August 27th of that year. It was furnished with a bell, the first in town, an organ, clock and new communion service. In 1882 the church was renovated and modernized, and is one of the most complete and commodious in this section.

Baptist Church.

A Baptist church was formed in Henniker shortly after the Revolution, and was considered a branch of the church at Sutton. It prospered for a time, but soon became extinct. On the twenty-third of February, 1832, an ecclesiastical council was convened to consider the expediency of forming another Baptist church in this town, and after due deliberation ten persons were embodied as a branch of the church of Bradford. In September of 1833 this branch was severed from the church at Bradford, and became known as the Baptist church of Henniker, and Rev. Enoch T. Winter was installed as pastor. He filled that office until 1838, and was succeeded by Rev. Jairus E. Strong, who remained one year. The next settled pastor was Rev. John Peacock, who remained but a short time, when he was succeeded by Rev. David G. Mason, ordained May 15, 1845, and dismissed in 1847. He was the last settled pastor the church had.

The whole number of communicants during its existence was one hundred. The first meetinghouse, a neat and commodious building of brick, was erected in 1834, and served as a church home for the society so long as it was in existence. In 1856 it was purchased by the Methodist Society for a house of worship.

Methodist.

During the summer of 1814 the first Methodist meeting was held in this town by Rev. Mr. Bates, the preacher on the circuit which included Henniker. Meetings were held occasionally at private houses and schoolhouses until 1832, when the first church was formed, consisting of ten members,—six males and four females. Rev. George Pickering was the second preacher, and was succeeded by Revs. Caleb Duston, Michael Quimby, Moses Chase, Wm. T. Cass, Abram Folsom, John C. Hazeltine, Samuel Prescott, Joseph Palmer, Abram M. Osgood, John Gould, E. R. Wilkins, William Iscariot, G. W. S. Rogers, L. H. Gordon, G. W. Norris, Josiah Hooper, N. M. Bailey, Otis Cole, H. S. Maid, Wm. H. Jones, W. W. Smith, Geo. C. Powell, Geo. H. Hardy, John H. Steele, W. W. LeSeur, E. L. House, until about 1886 or 1887; M T. Cilley, 1887; J. W. Bean, 1889; G. A. McLucas, 1890-2; M. Tisdale, 1893-4; G. H. Clark, 1895; B. P. Judd, 1896-8; Geo. S. Locke, 1899-1900; D. E. Burns, 1901-3; A. W. Frye, 1904, and the present pastor, Rev. J. H. Trow, who came about the year 1905.

The Methodists had no meetinghouse until 1834, when they erected their first church edifice. Meetings were held in this plain meetinghouse until 1856, when it was sold, and the brick church purchased for a church home. In 1882, the building was renovated and provided with an organ and with large and elegant memorial windows.

The whole number admitted to communion in the church has been probably between four and five hundred.

Quakers.

A Friends Meeting was established in this town as a branch of the Weare Meeting in 1799. Timothy Peasley, Pelatiah Penington, Nathaniel Chase, Aaron Foster, Daniel B. Alley, Joseph Huzzey and Samuel Morrison were the founders. The meeting flourished for more than half a century; but with the death of the older ones, and the removal of younger members from town, and to other sects, the society declined. There are a number of members at the present, however, and the society is flourishing. The whole number of members of the meeting here has been perhaps between three hundred and fifty and four hundred. The Friends' meetinghouse was built about a century ago, and has served as a place of worship of the people of that faith, most of whom have lived in the south part of the town.

Rev. S. Breed is the present leader of the Society of Friends here.

Universalist Church.

The Universalists held meetings as early as the beginning of last century under the leadership of Revs. Mr. Murray, Sebastian Streeter and Edward Evans; later by Revs. Adam Ballou and Alonzo A. Miner. The society held its meetings in the town house, in Academy Hall, and other halls until 1883, when a very neat and substantial building was erected for a church home. The building is of the Gothic style, and commodious enough to seat more than one hundred and fifty people. It is equipped with an organ, and heated by a furnace.

From 1876 and 1877 to 1880, preaching was had only at intervals, but in 1881, Rev. W. H. Fiske became pastor of a society formed at that time which has grown in prosperity and numbers, and is at the present time flourishing and exerting a worthy influence upon the religious and moral welfare of the community. The next pastor was probably Rev. J. H. June, followed by Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald about 1887; Rev. J. L. Scoboria, 1889-90; followed after a long vacancy by Rev. F. A. Gray, the present pastor, who came about the year 1901.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT.

The Contoocook River, which enters the town of Henniker on the southwestern boundary, and passes easterly through the central part of the town before leaving it on the eastern side, is a circuitous, tumultuous stream, with an excellent water fall in the southwest part of the town, and gives Henniker a valuable water power which is inferior to that of few towns in the State.

Not long after the earlier proprietors secured a grant of the town, preparations were made to erect a saw mill here and tradition has it that one was operated here for a time, if it was constructeed it was used probably only a very short time.

In the spring of 1758 a foundation was laid for a saw mill to use the water from Long Pond. Referring to tradition again, we have it that when the mill was nearly completed Indians appeared, and the workmen abandoning the project, left for their homes in Londonderry.

By the terms of the grant of the Masonian Proprietors, one lot was to be given to the person or persons who erected and operated the first saw mill in town. The following record was made:

Henniker, January ye 5th, 1769.

"We, the subscribers, selectmen for the town of Henniker, in the Province of New Hampshire, certifie that Jona. Temple, of Marlboro, in the County of Middlesex, has finished and completed a Good Saw Mill in said Henniker, it being the first Saw Mill in said town; these are therefore to signify our approbation of said Mill, and to Entitle said Temple to the right of land given by grant. We accordingly order the Town Clerk to Record this in the Town Book of Records as witness our Hands.

"Ebenezer Gile,
"Jonas Bowman,
"William Presbury,
"Selectmen of Henniker."

Like the great majority of towns in this State Henniker has had very many mills, saw, grist and the like, but has also had several important ones, which have made the town a manufacturing as well as an agricultural community.

In 1858 or 1859 there were in the town, a woolen factory and several mills. John Gutterson, in 1862, purchased the lower mill property and erected there a grist and flouring-mill. In November of 1864, he purchased and brought to Henniker a car-load of corn, containing four hundred and sixteen bushels, the first car load of corn ever brought into the town. Connected with his mill Mr. Gutterson had a saw mill where he manufactured half a million feet of lumber annually.

In 1871, the Contoocook Valley Paper Company purchased the water power at West Henniker, and soon afterward extensive improvements were made, including a large, new dam and an entire new mill, at an expenditure of $50,000. The company was incorporated in June, 1872, and has for years carried on an extensive business in the manufacture of paper goods, the value reaching into the hundred thousands annually. The company came into possession of the entire water power at West Henniker, one of the most valuable on the Contoocook River, and are still carrying on the manufacture of their products.

Courser & Son owned a mill on the upper mill pond, where they disposed of large amounts of grain and shorts, yearly. Connected with their mill, the Coursers also made cider, and sawed shingles and clapboards. They owned, too, the water power on the opposite side of the river, upon which they erected a mill.

Gage & Co. had a large mill near Long Pond, at which a very large amount of dry measures, nest boxes, piggins, covers, and so forth, were manufactured yearly, largely for Southern and Western trade, as well as for markets near home. The saw mill attached to the factory manufactured fully half a million feet of lumber annually.

C. A. Wilkins, at the present time, does an extensive business in the manufacture of dry measures, barrel covers and the like.

Geo. W. S. Dow operated a large mill in which he manufactured thousands of kits annually, and carried on also the manufacture of shingles and the dressing of lumber. Mr. Dow still has an extensive business in the goods which he manufactures.

Preston & Wood and D. E. Huntington carried on an important lumber business also.

James Wilkins and Daniel E. Putney had large carriage shops, and manufactured and repaired carriages and sleighs. C. C. Richards had an extensive tin, iron and copper establishment.

At the present time a large bicycle rim manufactory, under the management of Mr. C. Lovell, is in operation; the Contoocook Valley Creamery Co. have a large butter establishment; F. H. Barnes manufactures baskets; F. R. Atwood, boxes; and there is a large leatherboard factory doing an extensive and valuable business for the International Leather Co.; Falvey, Cogswell & Balch operate a steam laundry, patronized by all the surrounding towns; and at West Henniker, besides the Contoocook Valley Paper Co., there is the dairy products establishment of Bacon Bros., and W. E. Sargent's shingle mill.

At Henniker, W. W. Skillens and A. J. West are blacksmiths; R. Brill, W. N. Carnes, Geo. McLean, J. J. Gilchrist, G. C. Howe, Seth A. Bunnell, C. O. Carnes are carpenters; Morris Dowling is a jeweler; G. Boutell and R. M. Gregg, harness makers; A. S. Bennett, Lewis Childs, W. M. Moody, H. Gilman, G. Allen, H. S. Buckman, H. F. Corson, W. C. Clark, painters and paper hangers; E. E. Russell and C. E. Cogswell barbers; James Wilkins, wheelwright; J. O. Boody, printer; C. H. Bell, monument cleaner; G. H. Allen, portrait painter; and J. E. Marshall, electrician, while at West Henniker there is one mechanic, W. E. Sargent, carpenter.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Physicians.

Drs. George Morgan. Roberts, John Hunter, Amos Whitney, John Clements, Thos. Eaton, William Dinsmore, Jacob Whitcomb, Thos. D. Brooks, Daniel Hough, Zadok Bowman, Cook, Paschal P. Brooks, John Stafford, Barnard, Johnson, Solomon Warde, Tubbs, Geo. W. Cook, Wm. H. Hackett, Nathan Sanborn, Jacob Straw, Israel P. Chase, John Hurd, Wm. Gaylord, W. W. Wilkins, Leonard W. Peabody, Geo. H. Sanborn, who has been in practice in Henniker more than a quarter of a century. N. W. Bean came about 1888, few years; G. L. Wakefield came about 1891, few years.

C. I. Cole, who came about 1897, is still in practice. T. Holder is the only dentist in Henniker and has practised here many years.

Judges and Lawyers.

The following named residents or natives of the town have represented Henniker on the bench or bar.

Lawyers.

John Kelley, Artemas Rogers, Samuel Smith, Lewis Smith, John H. Albin, John J. Prentiss, Timothy Darling, E. B. S. Sanborn, Warren Clark, Robert M. Wallace, J. C. Browne, 1891, practised several years, and W. M. Holman, who came two or three years ago.

Judges.

Robert Wallace, Luther J. Howe, William Conner, Joshua Darling.

Trial Justices.

Jonathan Sawyer, Wm. Wallace, Imri Woods, David Clough, Jacob Straw, Oliver C. Trisher, William O. Folsom, register of deeds for Merrimack County, April, 1867-April, 1869, ex-High Priest of Woods Chapter, No. 14, R. A. Masons. The present justices are W. O. Folsom, H. E. Merrick, J. C. Cogswell, G. C. Preston, C. B. Childs, F. E. Colby, W. H. Bean, J. H. Falvey.

EDUCATIONAL.

The first money raised by the town after its incorporation was March 1, 1773, when the town "Voted Nine Pounds Raised to support a Schule." "Voted to have a Schule this year." For the first eighteen years after its incorporation, the town raised only $230 for schooling, but during this time many private schools were taught. The town was first portioned into districts in 1788. In 1808 the first female teacher was employed. Henniker through all her history has always taken great interest in the educational welfare of the young people of the town and have contributed generously to the support of the schools.

Henniker Academy.

Henniker Academy, erected in 1836, was the culmination of a discussion of years as to the establishment of such an institution. The building was erected by voluntary subscription, the academy was incorporated, and the first term was taught in the spring of 1837, with Breed Batchelder teacher.

The first board of trustees was as follows: Rev. Jacob Scales, Dr. Nathan Sanborn, Hon. Joshua Darling, Samuel Smith, Esq., Page Eaten, Abel Connor and Horace Childs of Henniker; Col. Stephen H. Long of Hopkinton; Rev. Jubilee Wellman of Warner; John Grimes, Esq., of Deering; Rev. Orlando G. Thatcher of Bradford; and Gen. Anthony Colby of New London.

The school was continued for twenty-eight years, and from one to three terms of school were taught annually. From 1867 until 1884, several terms were taught by different teachers, but not continuously. In 1884 arrangements were made with the trustees whereby the town put itself under obligation to appropriate a fixed sum for renovating some of the school rooms in the building and to appropriate also, $500 annually for five years that competent teachers might be secured; and the school once more prospered and attracted many students. Among the alumni of the school are found the names of Hon. James W. Patterson, U. S. Senator; Hon. James W. Childs, State Senator of Michigan; Rev. Addison Childs; Rev. Augustus Berry, for five years principal of the institution; Rev. Nathan F. Carter, Rev. Henry E. Sawyer, Rev. Addison P. Foster and Edna Dean Proctor.

Henniker now has an excellent and well attended high school of which Mr. H. C. Stoughton is principal.

Tucker Free Library.

On the twenty-second of September, 1904, the keys of the completed Tucker Free Library Building were handed over to the trustees of the Library.

The provisions of the will of the late George W. Tucker who left the bulk of his property for the purpose had been carefully carried out. The gift of the land for a site and the additional gifts of money from Mr. Henry A. Emerson made possible a building free from debt, and Henniker was given one of the finest town libraries in New Hampshire.

H. M. Francis & Son were the architects, The Nashua Granite Co., the contractors. The final cost of the building (with furnishings) was $16,446.57.

At the dedication ceremony, a large number of people visited the library. Since its completion, steel stacks accommodating thousands of volumes have been added, and many articles of furniture, most through the generosity of friends interested in the project. A beautiful library clock was presented by Mr. Willis Howe; many portraits; chairs from the Lodge of Rathbone Sisters; pictures and so forth from residents and friends. The three thousand volumes from the Henniker Free Library were placed in the new building, and since that time many hundred valuable works have been added to the collection. The library committee were: H. A. Emerson, President, G. C. Preston and E. N. Cogswell. The building is a handsome structure, commodious and well equipped, and is free for the use and benefit of the town of Henniker forever.

There are about four thousand volumes now in the library. Mrs. R. T. Dodge and Mrs. C. I. Cole are the librarians.

SOCIETIES.

Aurora Lodge, No. 43, A. F. and A. Masons was instituted June 24, 1825, and has been in continuous existence since that time. Enoch Darling was the first W. M.

Woods Royal Arch Chapter was instituted June 7, 1867. Judge Horace Chase was the first High Priest.

Crescent Lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 60, was instituted July 28, 1876, and an encampment was instituted in 1879.

Henniker Division, Sons of Temperance became a prosperous organization.

Bear Hill Grange, No. 39, was instituted December 4, 1874.

There is also in town the Azalea Rebekah Lodge, Craney Hill Lodge, K. of P., Henniker Commandery, U. O. G. C., the Pythian Sisters, Daughters of Liberty, Paul Revere Council, O. U. A. M., and the Village Improvement Society.

Census-1908

The population of the towns of Henniker, Bradford, Warner, and Hopkinton has been arranged in families where that arrangement has been possible. In addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of this town, as the names of the non-residents appear only when one or both of the parents are still living in the town. After the name of each non-resident will be found the present address, when such address has been given to us. Non-residents are indicated by the (*).

When a daughter in a family has married, her name taken in marriage appears after her given name in parenthesis, the name preceded by a small m, thus: (m).

Following the names of the population is the occupations. To designate these we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions, as follows: Farmer—far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of an advanced institution of learning—stu; pupil, a member of a lower grade of schools (including all who have reached the age of five years)—pl; housework—ho; laborer—lab; physician and surgeon—phy & sur; clergyman—clerg; merchant—mer; teacher—tr; blacksmith—blk; clerk—cl; bookkeeper—bk kpr; lawyer—law; mechanic mech; machinist—mach; engineer—eng; maker—mkr; worker—wkr; work—wk; shoe shop operative— s s op; cotton or woolen mill operatives —mill op; weaver—weav; spinner—spin; electrician—elec; painter—ptr; carriage work—car wk; dress maker—dr mkr; insurance—ins; traveling salesman, or commercial traveler—sales, or coml trav; music teacher—mus tr; teamster—team; general work—genl wk; mariner—mar; employ—emp; retired —retd; telephone operative—tel op; telegraph operative—teleg op.

This Census was compiled by a thorough canvass from house to house during the fall and winter of 1907-8, by Messrs Bartlett, Carpenter, Damon, Hanson and Kinney.

History of Warner

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

The township of Warner, situated in the western part of Merrimack County, contains 29,260 acres, including Kearsage Gore, which was annexed in 1818, and is bounded on the north by Sutton, Wilmot, Andover and Salisbury, on the east by Salisbury and Webster, on the south by Hopkinton and Henniker, and on the west by Bradford and Sutton. The centre of the town is eighteen miles northwest from the State House at Concord.

The surface of the town is broken, but the soil is excellent, and well adapted to farming. Valuable and abundant water power is supplied by the Warner River and its tributaries, which furnish several important manufacturing privileges.

There are six ponds within the boundaries of the town: Thom, or Tom, Pleasant, Bear, Bagley's, Simmons' and Day's, one of which, Pleasant, has no visible inlet or outlet, but is probably fed by subterranean passages or springs. The largest of these is Lake Tom, which first became a summer resort about a quarter of a century ago.

The main street of Warner is situated in the valley of the sinuous, winding river, bordered by beautiful hills. The village itself is pleasant and picturesque with neatness and thrift evident in all the surroundings. The wide streets are beautifully shaded by elm and maple, and in the summer season portions of the village are a perfect bower of shade.

Davisville, too, in the southeast part of the town, is a pretty and lively little village, and the fortunate possessor of the finest water power to be found on the Warner River. Waterloo, Roby's Corner, and Melvin's Mills, other little hamlets in the town, are pleasant little villages, presenting many attractions to the visitor.

Warner is famous for its picturesque nooks and for its rural drives, through the valley and over the streams, affording a view of the broad stretches of green interval, the gorge between Roby's and Melvin's Mills, beautiful in its grandeur, and of Silver Brook flowing to meet the Warner, and partly hidden by trees, while on the north old Kearsage is visible, as he rears his majestic head from the dense forest of evergreens, a sentinel guarding the villages in the Warner valley.

Warner is located on the Claremont Branch of the Boston & Maine Railroad. The population in 1900 was 1,358.

EARLY PROPRIETARY AND SETTLEMENT.

The territory now included within the limits of the town of Warner was first granted in 1735 by the General Court of Massachusetts, to Thomas Stevens and sixty other inhabitants of Amesbury and Salisbury, Mass., under the name of Township "No. 1." The terms of the grand were that each grantee should, within three years, clear and fence in five acres of land and erect a house there, and that the grantees should build a church, and "settle a learned orthodox minister."

In April, 1737, the grantees met, the township was rechristened "New Amesbury," and by June of 1738, the allotments had been made and sixty-three house-lots, each containing about five acres, had been laid out.

The proprietors held their first meeting in town, May 28, 1740, but as late as 1749, only four houses had been built on the lots. The men who constructed them were Thomas Colby, Moses Morrill, Jarvis Ring and Gideon Straw.

The outbreak of the French and Indian War caused the plans for settlement to be abandoned, and the buildings erected were destroyed by the Indians.

At about this time, the Masonian proprietors granted this territory to twenty-six men, most of whom were residents of Newcastle and Rye. The town was called by them Jennesstown because many of the grantees bore that name. A serious controversy between the Amesbury and Rye proprietors ensued, as a result of the claims of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and the affair was not settled until 1769, when it was settled by arbitration, though further wrangling continued over the sum paid for a quit claim, which was brought to an end in 1773. The Amesbury proprietors released their claim to the Rye-Newcastle men, and the Massachusetts General Court gave them portions of the townships of Solon and Poland in Maine to remunerate them for their loss.

The first permanent settlement of the town was made in 1762, by Daniel Annis, and his sons-in-law, Reuben Kimball and Daniel Floyd. Annis erected a house in the Dimond's Corner District, and Reuben Kimball, for some time, resided near him.

Daniel Floyd (or Flood) later called Capt. Floyd, lived on what is now Denny Hill. Hannah, daughter of Daniel Annis, and wife of Reuben Kimball, was the first English woman who ever lived here, and her son Daniel, born in October, 1762, was the first white child born here.

In 1763, the proprietors having voted to give each of the first ten settlers a "forty-acre lot of upland and five acres of intervale," Isaac Waldron and his two sons, Isaac, Jr., and Theodore, and Paskey Pressey, came early in 1763, to reside here.

At the end of that year, besides the families already mentioned, there were in town those of the following men: Thomas Annis (from whom Lake Tom took its name), Moses Annis, Solomon Annis, David Bagley (who was town clerk thirty-nine years), Enoch Blaisdell, Elijah Blaisdell, Isaac Chase, Daniel Chase, Abner Chase, Joseph Currier, Daniel Currier, Theophilus Currier, Moses Clark, Hubbard Carter, Moses Colby, Francis Davis, Daniel Flanders, Ebenezer Eastman, Stephen Edmunds, Eliphalet Danforth, James, Christopher, and Philip Flanders, Jeremy Fowler, Joseph Foster, Jonathan Fifield, Seth, Richard and Ezekiel Goodwin, Robert Gould, Nehemiah Heath, Barnard Hoyt, David Gilmore, Samuel Roby, Theodore Stevens, Thomas Rowell, Jos. Sawyer, Jonathan Smith, Jacob Tucker, Nathaniel Trumball, Parmenas Watson, Daniel Young, and Abner Watkins.

These settlers resided probably as follows: Davis and Gilmore at Davisville; Thomas Moses and Solomon Annis, and Fifield at Dimond's Corner; Smith and Bagley at Bagley's Bridge; Heath, Hoyt, Jos. Currier, Dan'l and Christopher Flanders, at the Lower Village; Watson Fowler, Moses Clark and Daniel Currier at Joppa; Roby, Trumball, Philip Flanders and Seth Goodwin, at Schoodach; Joseph Sawyer, Abner Chase and Richard Goodwin, on Kelly Hill; Joseph Foster, in the Kimball District; Gould, Stevens, Rowell, Theodore Currier and Ezekiel Goodwin, on Waldron's Hill; Moses Colby and James Flanders, on Burnt Hill; Isaac Chase, on Pumpkin Hill; Edmunds and Carter on Tory Hill; Abner Watkins, in the Gore; Daniel Young, at the Levi Bartlett place, on the Joppa road; and Jacob Tucker at the Centre Village. By 1770, Warren or New Amesbury, as it was then called, had a population of about fifty-five families. As late as 1773, there were no frame houses in the town. The first erected in the settlement was built by David Bagley at Bagley's Bridge soon after that date. Francis Davis and Reuben Kimball were the first to follow his example; and Mr. Kimball built the first frame barn.

Rev. William Kelley, the earliest settled minister, erected the first two-story frame house in 1774.

INCORPORATION.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of this township July 14, 1774, it was "Voted that Captain Francis Davis shall go and get the town incorporated, if the Proprietors will find the money to do it with." The proprietors were consulted accordingly, the necessary funds were "found," and a petition was drawn up asking for a charter and praying that the town be named Amesbury.

Ezekiel Evans of Salisbury, Mass., agent for the proprietors, and Captain Davis, who was a proprietor, went to Portsmouth and presented the petition to Governor Wentworth and the Council. They secured a charter but the Governor and Council named the town Warner, probably in honor of Hon. Jonathan Warner of Portsmouth, the governor's most intimate friend, his cousin by marriage, and a member of the Royal Council. The town was incorporated September 3, 1774, and the first town meeting of the new borough was called a month later, October 4, 1774, when the first civil officers of the town were elected as follows:

Moderator, Isaac Chase; town clerk, Daniel Flanders; selectmen, Daniel Floyd, Jacob Waldron and Isaac Chase. The number of voters at that time was forty-eight.

MILITARY HISTORY.

Upon the first news of the conflict between the colonists and British at Lexington and Concord, ten Warner men seized their arms and hurried to the field. Among these were James Palmer, John Palmer, Richard Bartlett, Jonathan Roby, Francis Davis, and Wells Davis.

Five Warner men were at the battle of Bunker Hill, namely: William Lowell, Amos Floyd, Francis Davis, Wells Davis and Jonathan Roby. In the same year Richard Bartlett and Charles Barnard, the latter of whom settled in Warner after the war, participated in a skirmish with the British near New Brunswick.

Roll of Daniel Floyd's Company, 1776:

"Daniel Floyd, Capt.; Thomas Rowell, First Lieut.; Philip

Flanders, Second Lieut.; Joseph Currier, ensign; privates, Abner Chase, Abner Watkins, Christopher Flanders, David Bagley, Daniel Currier, David Annis, Ebenezer Eastman, Ezra Flanders, Edmund Sawyer, Francis Davis, Jr., James Palmer, Isaac Chase, Isaac Waldron, Jr., Jonathan Gould, Joseph Foster, Jonathan Fifield, James Flanders, Jonathan Smith, John Palmer, Moses Call, Moses Clement, Nathaniel Trumbull, Richard Goodwin, Robert Gould, Stephen Edmunds, Samuel Trumbull, Thomas Annis, Wells Davis, Zebulon Davis, Theophilus Currier.

"Gone into the service: Jacob Waldron, Jacob Tucker, Isaac Walker, David Gilmore, Daniel Young, Hubbard Carter, Moses Clark, Paskey Pressey.

"Alarm List Men: Daniel Annis, Daniel Flanders, Daniel Annis, Jr., Francis Davis, Isaac Waldron, Joseph Sawyer, Jonathan Palmer, Jacob Hoyt, Nehemiah Heath, Parmenas Watson, William Kelley, Benjamin Currier, Samuel Roby, Seth Goodwin.

Of these men, Hubbard Carter enlisted for the war and Isaac Walker, Paskey Pressey, Daniel Young and John Palmer as militiamen. Three Warner men—Aquilla Davis, Amos Floyd, and Philip Rowell—enlisted for a term of three years. At the expiration of the service of these men, William Lowell, Isaac Lowell, Stephen Colby, and Ichabod Twilight, a mulatto, were enlisted to succeed them. Several of the townsmen were at Bennington and at Saratoga. Elliot Colby, Francis Davis, John Palmer, Ezekiel Goodwin, Samuel Trumbull, Paskey Pressey, Robert Gould, Abner Watkins took the field at that time.

Fifteen Warner men were furnished for the expedition to protect New Hampshire from the threated invasion of the British and Canadian Indians in 1780.

WAR OF 1812.

At the time of the outbreak of the War of 1812, there were about two hundred and sixty men enrolled in Warner as able to perform military duty. Of this number between eighty and ninety served at one time or another during the war.

Roll of Capt. Joseph Smith's Company.

Enlisted Feb. 1, 1813, for one year.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Congregationalists.

The history of the Congregational Church in Warner begins with the history of the town. It was the only active evangelical denomination in the town for more than half a century.

One of the conditions of the grant of the township was that the grantees should, within three years after their admission to the town, build and furnish a convenient meetinghouse for divine worship and "settle a learned orthodox minister."

The earliest preachers, perhaps, in the town were Timothy Walker and Nehemiah Ordway, Jr., who were paid for services rendered in 1767, 1769 and 1770. In 1771, Rev. Robie Morrill, of Epping, preached several times and not long afterward a Mr. Farrington preached here.

The Congregational Church was organized two years before the incorporation of the town, February 5, 1772. The same day, Rev. Wm. Kelley was ordained pastor. He had supplied the church since early in 1771. He was a native of Newbury, Mass. (1744), and a graduate of Harvard (1767). He continued as pastor until March 11, 1801, when he was dismissed. He lived in the town during the remainder of his life and was loved and respected by his fellow citizens.

The first deacons of the church were Parmenas Watson and Nehemiah Heath, the former serving for a period of fifty-eight years; the latter, forty-eight.

After Mr. Kelley's dismissal, the church had no regular pastor for thirteen years, during which there was dissension among the members, and a division and weakening of the church because of the location of the meetinghouse "under the ledge," and for other reasons. "The wounds were slowly healed by time."

Rev. John Woods of Fitzwilliam became pastor in June, 1814. He was an able man of great intellect and power, and during his ministry here, a wonderful revival rewarded his endeavor. A new church building was erected, in 1819, by twenty-nine members of the society, and stood at first, a little west of the Lower Village until it was removed to the center in 1845. The Rev. Mr. Woods was dismissed at his own request in June, 1823. From 1823 to 1827, the church was without a pastor. Several ministers preached a few months, and Rev. Henry C. Wright was here about two years. Rev. Jubilee Wellman was installed pastor in 1827, and remained ten years. His successor, Rev. Amos Blachard came in February, 1837, removing after two years of labor here to Meriden, N. H. Succeeding pastors have been: Rev. Jas. W. Perkins, March 4, 1840-1846; Rev. Robert W. Fuller, 1846-1850; Rev. Harrison O. Howland (after a year's preaching for the society), 1853-1857; Rev. Daniel Warren, 1857-1863; Rev. Henry S. Huntington of Norwich, Conn. (who had supplied during a period of three years), 1866-1872; removed to Galesburg, Ill.; (one hundredth anniversary of the church celebrated in June, 1872); Rev. Matthew M. Gates, 1872-1876; Revs. Geo. A. Beckwith, Geo.J. Pierce, Geo. E. Foss, Geo. W. Savory, preached during periods of more than one year. Pastors succeeding: Revs. Smith Norton, came April 1, 1885; A. E. Hall, until about 1893; A. T. Ferguson, about 1894-5; W. E. Renshaw, A. H. Armes, S. Eaton, J. M. Blue.

Baptists.

In 1793, a large body of citizens of Warner separated themselves from the orthodox church and established another religious society, because of a diversity regarding infant baptism. The separatists declared themselves to be Anti-Pedobaptists. The new society began the erection of a meetinghouse, but never finished it. No settled minister ever was pastor of the church, and it weakened gradually until in a few years it was practically extinct.

The present Baptist Church was organized in 1833, by twenty-two citizens of the town, who erected a church edifice, and dedicated it in September of that year. The first settled pastor of this church was Rev. Geo. W. Cutting, a native of Shoreham, Vt., who remained from January, 1835, to September, 1848, when he accepted a call from the Baptist Church in Lyme. He was considered an able preacher. Rev. John M. Chick of Maine came to the church about 1840, and continued as pastor until 1846, when Rev. J. S. Herrick came for a pastorate of five years. The fourth pastor, Rev. Lorenzo Sherwin, who began his ministrations here in February, 1852, was obliged to resign the following year because of ill health. In April, 1853, Rev. N. J. Pinkham of Dover, began to preach here and continued his ministry in Warner until February, 1857, when his successor, Rev. Henry Stetson, came for a pastorate of four years, 1860-1864.

Rev. Albert Heald was pastor from 1865 to 1870, and Rev. Wm. H. Walker, from 1873 to 1881. In the fall of 1881, Rev. N. M. Williams of Lowell was installed as pastor, which position he continued to hold for several years.

On the 13th of September, 1883, the semi-centennial of the church took place. Other pastors: Robert Bennett, until about 1895; L. E. Gates, N. F. Tilden, J. A. Harding. Rev. W. J. Cloues is the present pastor.

At times during the last century, there was an organization of Free Baptists in town, though they never had a church edifice or a settled minister. For many years they made use of the old schoolhouse of District No. 8 as a place of worship, having regular preaching in the building.

Methodists.

This denomination once had a prosperous organization in Warner. The society built a meetinghouse at the Lower Village probably about 1835, and maintained public worship until 1870, since which time the church has not been regularly occupied. Revs. Wm. Abbott, Charles Knott, and M. V. B. Knox were pastors of this church at various periods.

Universalists.

A Universalist Church was organized in Warner in 1844, and a meetinghouse was erected. Regular preaching was maintained during upwards of twenty years, Walter Harriman, Rev. J. F. Wetherell and Rev. Lemuel Willis occupying the pulpit the greater part of the time. The meetinghouse was purchased by N. G. Ordway in 1865, moved from its old site and remodeled, the portion formerly used as a church becoming Union Hall.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT.

The people of Warner are principally engaged in the pursuits of agriculture, but there has always been more or less manufacturing carried on in the town,, and it is an important and growing interest of the people here at the present time.

The Warner river furnishes an abundance of water power, and during two or three miles of its course the water can be used over every thirty rods. At Melvin's Mills, at Waterloo, and at Davisville there are excellent privileges which have been utilized more or less since the early days of the town.

The manufacturing history of the town began, perhaps, with the action taken by the proprietors of the township March 21, 1739, when they "Voted to pay Orlando Colby, Joseph Jewell, and John Challis, Jr., £120 in Province bills of the old tenor to build a good saw mill." The mill was constructed in 1740, at Davisville; and the men who built it camped near the stone water-through below that village.

For a number of years after the town was settled the people went to Concord to grind their corn, drawing it upon hand-sleds or carrying it upon their shoulders. The first grist mills were erected at Davisville in 1765. More than a hundred years ago there were grist and saw mills at Waterloo (Great Falls), and at one time later in its history the village had a tannery, a clothing mill, a trip-hammer and a paper mill. The paper mill was in operation from 1816 to 1840, and manufactured all grades of paper. At Melvin's, there were a saw mill and a grist mill, a bedstead factory, a chain factory and a woolen cloth factory, all doing a fair-sized business. The woolen mill was destroyed by fire.

At Davisville there were an iron foundry, which ceased operation about 1830, and a woolen factory which was washed away by the "Great Freshet" of 1826.

Davis Brothers, manufacturers of straw-board began business at Davisville in 1871. They owned a grist mill and a saw mill, and began the manufacture of boxes about twenty years ago.

At the Centre Village, the Merrimack Glove Company established a thriving business, and procured on reasonable terms the large building near the railroad which had been erected by the defunct Boston Boot & Shoe Company, and began its business in the early part of 1883. The Warner Glove Company, who located on Depot street, carried on a large business also. An old and enterprising firm in town is that of Bartlett Brothers, who have manufactured excelsior at Melvin Mills, since 1871, when they began business. There are a number of thousands of dollars invested in the industry, and the output amounts to a value of many thousand dollars annually.

At Roby's Corner for many years, O. P. and C. W. Redington have been engaged in the manufacture of hubs. The establishment is large, a number of men are employed and the business carried on amounts to a value of many thousand dollars every year.

The Kearsage Fruit Evaporating Company erected two large buildings at the Centre a number of years ago containing evaporators of the capacity of five hundred bushels of apples per day. The firm employed between fifty and sixty operatives during three months of the year, and the total value of the manufactured goods reached a value not far from $400,000 annually.

Melvin's Mills received its name from the Melvin brothers, who built a saw mill and grist mill there as early as 1825.

The manufacturers, mechanics and artisans of the town are as follows (given by N. H. Register, 1907-08): Barbers, F. L. Williams, Geo. H. Hall; blacksmiths, F. B. Turner, P. F. Clough, E. C. Harriman, Wm. Chase, W. L. Morgan; boots, E. W. Palmer; box board and special papers, United Box Board & Paper Co., at Davisville; harnesses, E. W. Palmer; lumber, F. A. Clark, M. T. Ela; meal and feed, J. K. Adams; job printer, E. C. Cole; photographer and picture frames, C. H. Hardy; plumbers, F. A. Savory & Co.; painters and paper hangers, Geo. White, G. S. Davis; undertakers, F. M. Colby, Geo. C. Flanders; wood and lumber, E. H. Carroll & Son, J. P. Hill; carpenter, H. E. Bunnell, W. Little, H. Seavey, W. C. Johnson, Ed. Rand; butter, Kearsage Creamery Association, J. F. Jewell, president; wheelwright, Warren C. Johnson; bobbins, Hambleton Bros.

Melvin's Mills—Excelsior, Bartlett Bros.

Roby's Corner—Hubs, O. P. & C. W. Redington.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Lawyers and Statesmen.

One of the earliest lawyers, as well as one of the ablest men which Warner claims as one of her citizens, was Henry B. Chase, who came to this town from Cornish, N. H., in 1805, and practised law at the Lower Village. He served several terms in the State Legislature, during one of which (1817) he was Speaker of the House, was the first postmaster of the town, and in 1823 was elected the first Register of Probate for Merrimack County, serving in that capacity until 1840. His reputation as a sound lawyer was known throughout the State. He died in 1854, at the age of seventy-seven years.

General Walter Harriman, a man whose name is known and honored not only in New Hampshire but throughout the United States, was born in Warner April 8, 1817, the son of Benjamin E. Harriman, and a descendant of warriors in the early days of the land. In his youth he taught school in several different States, later became a clergyman, and then a merchant, being the senior partner in the firm with John S. Pillsbury, later Governor of Michigan. It is doubtless a unique instance in the history of our country and certainly worthy of mention, when two young business partners later became governors of States.

In 1849, Mr. Harriman was elected by his towns people to the New Hampshire House of Representatives, where he served a number of years, and was an honored legislator among many brilliant men. He served later as State Senator, and in 1853 and 1854, was treasurer of the State. He held other offices, among them that of U. S. Commissioner to classify and appraise Indian lands in Kansas, a region then of turbulence and lawlessness, all of which had little effect on Harriman, who performed his duties faithfully and well.

During the reign of the correctly termed un-American political heresy called Know-Nothingism, 1854-1856, Mr. Harriman was its firm and unswerving enemy, and took a decided stand against it.

In 1861, Harriman became editor and one of the proprietors of the Manchester "Weekly Union," and was a leader and spokesman of the "War Democrats." In 1862, he was made colonel of the Eleventh N. H. Volunteers, and served with gallantry and distinction, and with much suffering, for added to the privations and dangers of field service he endured four months of imprisonment in Confederate prisons.

The first battle in which his regiment was in action was that of Fredericksburg in December, 1862, when he and his men faced and endured the awful carnage of the terrible day before Marye's Heights when the ranks of the Union soldiers were cut to pieces. After months of war and bloodshed we see the regiment under their colonel at the front in the battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, and finally at Petersburg when Col. Harriman led a brigade of nine regiments into the city, as the Confederate army were abandoning it to the assaulting force. The colonel was breveted brigadier-general of U. S. Volunteers in 1865.

The war over, General Harriman was elected to the N. H. Legislature, then made Secretary of State, and was later elected and afterward re-elected Governor of New Hampshire, in which office he gave the commonwealth an able and honorable administration. Other offices came to him, and then he traveled abroad, writing a book entitled "In the Orient," upon his return. He was twice married, first, in 1841, to Miss Apphia K. Hoyt, who died two years afterward, and in 1844, to Miss Almira R. Andrews, both of whom were of Warner.

In the month of July, 1883, he was taken ill, and after a hard struggle he succumbed, and New Hampshire lost one of her greatest soldiers and statesmen, and one of her most honorable and noble men.

Ex-Governor Ezekiel Straw was born and spent his early life in Warner, and ex-Governor N. G. P. Ordway was another of Warner's sons. Ex-Governor John Pillsbury of Minnesota spent a part of his boyhood here and his brother, Hon. George A. Pillsbury, who became mayor of Minneapolis, was once one of the merchants here.

Stephen C. Badger, a native of Warner, born 1797, graduated at Dartmouth College, 1823; admitted to the bar, 1826; practised in New London and Concord; clerk of courts of Merrimack County, 1834-1846.

Nathaniel Green came in 1795; J. H. Woodman, 1797-8; Parker Noyes came in 1799; H. B. Chase, 1805, through life; H. G. Harris, 1816; Edward B. West, about 1848, few years; Samuel Davis, Jr., about 1859, probably in this town, practised some years; A. P. Davis, admitted to bar in 1876, practised in his native town, S. K. Paige.

Physicians.

Drs. John Currier, Cogswell, John Hall, Thomas Webster, Wm. Dinsmoor, Henry Lyman, Silas Walker, Jacob Straw, Moses Long, Caleb Buswell, Leonard Eaton, Stevens, Parmalee, Chas.

A. Savory, Parsons Whidden, John M. Fitts, Moses S. Wilson, John G. Parker, Frank W. Graves, J. M. Rix, J. R. Cogswell, S. J. Cogswell, came about 1899, J. F. Merrill, came about 1900, L. H. Cogswell, who has been here several years.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Simonds Free High School was established in 1871. It received its name from Hon. Franklin Simonds, who left the bulk of his property for this purpose. Mr. Simonds died in 1869 and Mrs. Simonds the following year. The bequests of Mr. and Mrs. Simonds amounted to $25,000.

In the summer of 1871 a brick school building was erected on a pleasant site, and in December the school was opened. The building cost about $10,000. Mr. E. C. Cole was the first principal. Other early principals were: N. N. Atkinson, 1874; Wm. Goldthwaite, 1876; E. H. Farnsworth, 1880; Charles A. Strout, 1881; H. S. Robert, 1884. Mr. C. L. Joy was principal in 1907.

The first piano in town was brought here by Mrs. Herman Foster in 1832. The first two stoves of the James patent were introduced and used by H. G. Harris, Esq., and E. C. Badger, in 1825. The first brass knocker was placed on the residence of Rev. Jubilee Wellman about the year 1830.

1810—January 19th—terrible blizzard over New England known as "Cold Friday," a day of terror to the people of central New Hampshire.

1816—"The year without a summer." Deep snow in June, frost and ice in July, ice, half an inch thick in August, a cold northern wind prevailed nearly all summer, crops destroyed, flowers and fruit killed.

1821—Tornado. The terrible whirlwind was the greatest of the kind ever seen in this section . Several lives lost in Warner, and much property destroyed.

1825—Lafayette's visit; Warner's guest on journey through the town.

1826—Freshet. All the bridges in Warner carried away; crops on the lowlands entirely destroyed. The same freshet that destroyed the Willey family at the White Mountain Notch.

In 1813 the first post office was established in Warner at the Lower Village. In 1830, consolidated with Waterloo post office and established at the Centre.

In 1871, a fair was established by several Warner citizens. In 1873, Hon. N. G. Ordway laid out twelve acres of land near the village for a fair ground, erected buildings and stalls, and made a race course. River Bow Park Association was incorporated by the Legislature in 1875. The grounds and buildings were sold in 1876 to an association which embraced a dozen or more towns around Kearsage Mountain.

In 1866 the Kearsage Mountain Road Company was incorporated, and several years later, after delays, and changes in plans, the five miles of road were, in 1874, completed from Hurricane Gate to the top of the mountain.

The organizations in town are: Harris Lodge, A. F. and A. M.; Central Lodge, I. O. O. F.; Welcome Rebekah Lodge; Warner Grange; Warner Commandery, U. O. G. C.; Lincoln Lodge, O. U. A. M.; Kearsage Division, S. of T.

History of Bradford

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

The town of Bradford, Merrimack County, New Hampshire lies midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers and is about twenty-five miles west from Concord. It is bounded on the north by Newbury and Sutton, east by Warner, south by Henniker and Hillsborough and west by Washington.

The north, south and west lines are practically straight. The town is longest east and west, but if about one-fourth of the eastern portion were cut off, it would leave the remainder an exact square.

Bradford is in many parts hilly, but the largest portion of the town is situated in a valley which extends over an area of about three miles. A plain, a mile in length and a half a mile in width, lies near the Sunapee mountains on the northwest. The soil is varied, and largely composed of the primitive granite rock crushed and ground to powder by the slow-melting avalanches of the ice period. There are valuable deposits of stone in the easterly part of the town. The town is watered by small streams, having their source for the most part in ponds, of which Todd's the largest, lies between Bradford and Newbury.

On the east side of the town lies the pond or lake called Pleasant or Bradford Pond about 550 rods long and 250 rods wide, with several islands. The surrounding landscape is one of picturesqueness and beauty. Bradford is located on the Claremont branch of the B. & M. R. R. and is connected by stage with New London and South Newbury. Population in 1900, 805.

EARLY SETTLEMENT.

The township of Bradford was granted to John Pierce and George Jaffrey, and was settled (the "History of New England" says) in 1771, by William Presbury and family, "who resided here three years before the arrival of any other settlers." It has been thought however that Isaac Davis was living in this town in 1762, and probably he was the earlies settler. Several settlers from Bradford, Mass., soon followed the Presbury, and it is from this circumstance that Bradford received its name.

Isaac Davis, came from Plaistow. Tradition has it that he came three summers in succession, and made improvements on the land before he brought his wife to live here. It is believed that Mr. Davis was a settler here five years before the grant to John Pierce and George Jaffrey in 1765. He erected his house near the "pond," Lake Massasecum, and had a mill a few rods away. He married Katuria Woodward, who died about the year, 1811. He, himself, died about 1808.

Betsy Davis, born in 1760 their oldest daughter married Stephen Ward an early settler here, and lived in Bradford; Molly, born in 1762, married Abner Ward of this town; James was the oldest son, born in 1764; Daniel, born in 1766, married Mary Brown; other children were, John who died young, Susan who married Moses Bailey, Sally, unmarried and John who married Sally Ward.

Ebenezer Eaton, born April 1, 1757, came from Hopkinton. He married Hannah French and had a large family. Mr. Eaton died Jan. 5, 1806.

Jonathan Cheney came from Londonderry and settled near the east part of the town.

Richard Cressy, was born in Beverly, Mass., Sept. 5, 1737. He came from Hopkinton to Bradford Feb. 11, 1794. His wife was Susan Evans of Methuen.

Mr. Cressey was a soldier of the Revolution. He died Sept. 9, 1797.

William Dowlin, born, 1720; came to New England, 1753; married Sarah Norris of Epping, N. H., and had three children, Anne, Timothy, and Elizabeth. He died Feb. 24, 1811. Timothy L., his son, born Feb. 4, 1762, married Elizabeth Collins, July 24, 1790, and lived on the old Amaziah Hall place. He was a large land owner. He had twelve children.

John Felch, a native of Weare (1794) settled near the Corner. John Brown resided on the farm adjoining.

Offin French was a Revolutionary soldier, and upon his return from military service, married and moved to Bradford, making the journey on horseback. He bought a lot of wild land, cleared a farm and erected a dwelling, a little east of the center of the town. Timothy Emerson, Capt. Sawyer, Josiah, father of Rial Rowe, Nehemiah Colby and a Mr. Hale were his neighbors. He had twelve children.

Farrington Hawkes was born in Dunstable, Mass., April 21, 1770. He married Sarah Knowlton of Newburyport, Mass., settled first in Hudson, in 1796, in Warner, and in 1802, purchased half of lot 43 in Bradford of Richard Marshall. In December, 1802, he bought the place where he spent the remainder of his days. The deed was given by John Pierce of Portsmouth.

John Howlet was of Henniker and married Phebe Johnson of that town. Fifteen children were born to them.

Stephen Hoyt was born in Hopkinton, N. H., Aug. 30, 1769. He married Phebe, daughter of Deacon William Presbury, born July 20, 1772. "She was the first white child born in the town of Bradford." She died July 29,1847.

Samuel Jones of Hopkinton came here about 1809. He taught a district school here and became a leading man in town. He married Elizabeth Andrews of Sutton, and later Amanda Eaton of Bradford.

Richard Marshall, who married Esther Pierce, came to Bradford probably with Josiah Melvin before 1787. He owned and operated one of the first grist mills constructed in the town.

Nathan Piper of Hopkinton married Hannah Smith of Bradford and settled here about 1808.

Joshua Eaton, a native of Haverhill, Mass., came to this town with his wife and child in the spring of 1795.

John Brown was an early settler.

War of 1812.

The following is a partial list: John Harriman, John Robbins, Joseph Hartshorne, Hazen Presbury.

Bradford in the Civil War.

Bradford is not a large town, but her record in the Rebellion will compare favorably with that of any other town of similar size in the State of New Hampshire. She will always hold the men whose names are given below in grateful remembrance.

Roll Call: Col. W. M. Tappan, Dr. Cyrus M. Fisk, Moses J. Seavey, Willis Cressey, John Lynn, Chas. M. Gould, Mansel Bixby, Horace Benton, Joseph C. Hoyt, George Benton, Newton Cheney, Savory Cheney, John Choate, John Eaton, Justus A. Dunbar, Geo. F. Smith, Geo. Sargent, Cyrus E. Jones, James Hoyt, P. B. Richards, Henry Presby, Henry Hoyt, Franklin Pierce, Wm. West, Frank West, Ezekiel Hadley, Ai Hall, Peter Craig, Chas. Tappan, Clarence Bailey, Micah Howe, David Hawks, Miner Hawks, Geo. L. Ward, Proctor D. Ward, Levi Ward, Curtis Davis, Albert Woodbury, Hollis Brockway, Geo. Dunfield, Woodbury Barnes, T. Z. Smith.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Lawyers.

Weare Tappan, a graduate of Dartmouth in 1811, came to Bradford in 1818, and continued the practice of law until within a few years of his death which occurred here in 1868, at the age of seventy-eight.

Mason W. Tappan, son of Weare Tappan, was born at Newport, N. H., Oct. 20, 1817. He was admitted to the bar in 1841, member of N. H. House of Representatives; of U. S. Congress three terms; Col. of First Regiment N. H. Volunteers in the Civil War; Attorney General of New Hampshire.

Lawrence D. Bailey, a native of Sutton, read law with M. W. Tappan, and was his law partner from 1855 to 1857. He afterwards went to Kansas.

Moses K. Hazelton, born in Lisbon, began the practice of law in 1857, and was M. W. Tappan's partner until the outbreak of the War of the Rebellion. He was appointed paymaster in the regular army, and died in the service.

E. B. S. Sanborn was a law partner of M. W. Tappan from 1863 to 1868. He went from Bradford to Franklin, where he continued the practice of law and was the recipient of several important offices.

Robert M. Wallace was a native of Henniker, read law with Col. Tappan, and was his law partner from 1868 to 1871. He later went to Milford, where he became a prominent and leading attorney.

Bartlett G. Cilley of Andover practised law in company with Col. Tappan in 1861 and 1862, and until his death in this town.

Bainbridge Wadleigh, son of Evans Wadleigh of Bradford, read law with Col. Tappan, and began the practice of law at Milford, where he soon rose to prominence, represented the town frequently in the Legislature and served also as U. S. Senator.

Lawyers since 1885: F. H. Gould, who practised law here, was the only resident practitioner for very many years.

Physicians.

The first physician in Bradford was Dr. Lyman, a skillful and able surgeon. He came here from Warner, to which town he later returned. Dr. Farley studied with Dr. Lyman at the Corner.

Dr. Jason H. Ames, a native of Fairlee, Vt., was his successor. He settled at the Corner and resided there for many years, being for a long period the only physician in town.

Dr. David Mitchell of Peterborough settled at the "Middle of the town," and practised about ten years. He died in Bradford.

Dr. Frederick Mitchell came to this town not long after his brother's decease, but remained only a short time.

Dr. Harvey Studley followed Dr. Mitchell in practice here, and was in town probably about ten years. He died April 15, 1830, at the age of forty-one years.

Dr. Colby of Henniker came to Bradford for a practice of a year or two. Dr. Weston followed him and lived here about ten years. He was succeeded by Dr. Geo. H. Hubbard of Sutton, who was a graduate of the Vermont Medical College, a skillful surgeon, and a successful as well as a popular physician. He removed from here to Manchester, edited the "New Hampshire

Journal of Medicine,'' later was a surgeon in the U. S. army, and after the war had charge of a hospital in New York State. He died from an injury sustained while alighting from a street car.

Dr. Reuben Hatch came from Hillsborough in 1837, and removed to Newport in October, 1838.

Dr. Daniel F. Hale died at Bradford Dec. 7, 1848, at the age of twenty-nine years.

Drs. Morgan and Stickney were here during brief periods. Dr. Doton practised here about six years; removed to Manchester.

Dr. Fisk lived at the ''Mills'' fifteen or twenty years, and practised medicine. He disposed of his practice to Dr. N. T. Clark. Dr. John B. Raines, who came here in November, 1882, resided for some time at the Mill Village.

Dr. C. A. Carleton from Webster, who practised here a short time before removing to Salem, Mass., Dr. Fitz, who resided at the ''Corner,'' and owned a share in the hotel with Reynolds Rogers; and Dr. J. H. Martin, who was here a few years, are the next physicians on the list.

Dr. Ebenezer H. Davis, son of Samuel Davis of Bradford, studied with Dr. G. H. Hubbard, graduated at the Vermont Medical College, and settled in Manchester, where he became a very successful and popular physician.

Dr. John Milton Hawks removed from here to Manchester.

Dr. Samuel W. Jones, son of Samuel Jones, studied medicine under the instruction of Dr. G. H. Hubbard, graduated at the Vermont Medical College, and began the practice of medicine in Manchester, where for several years he was a partner of Dr. E. H. Davis. He later became a proprietor of a hotel in Washington, D. C., and after accumulating a fortune retired to private life in Boston. He was drowned in Orange County, Florida.

Physicians since 1885: J. B. Raynes, B. F. Peaslee, W. F. Wallace, until about 1895; P. B. Richards, W. H. Abbott, 1894-1903 or 4; C. J. Jordan, 1895, a few years; N. L. Griffin, about 1904, about two years, and Dr. D. G. Underwood, Bradford's present resident physician, who has been engaged in the practice of medicine here for a number of years.

ECCLESIASTICAL ACCOUNT.

Congregational.

In the early history of Bradford, Congregationalism was the town religion. The first church was organized in 1803. Rev. Josiah Carpenter was perhaps the first minister settled in town. He preached here first perhaps in 1791. Rev. Lemuel Bliss was another of the early ministers. He resided some years in town and died here. In 1795 it was voted to build a meetinghouse. Hosea Wheeler was taken "on probation." Rev. Robert Paige was settled as pastor of the church for several years. He died and was buried near the town house. Rev. Mr. Kent also preached here. Rev. Orlando Thatcher lived and died there. The next minister was Rev. Mr. Rogers. While he was at the church the non-resistant doctrine was preached in town in connection with anti-slavery. This took from the church membership the families of John Brown, Albert Chase, James Farrington and others, weakening the church.

Religious services were held in the town house until about seventy years ago, when the "new" meetinghouse was erected near the old town house.

Pastors of the Bradford Congregational Church since 1885 have been: Rev. S. N. Howell, 1886-7; Rev. N. Rich, 1888; vacant; Rev. Chas. Fowler, 1897; Rev. Samuel Eaton, 1898-9; Rev. William France, 1900, who is the present pastor.

Baptists.

The Baptists were voted a share of the public money in the early days of the town and a vote was passed that "people may have such preaching as suits them best." The Baptist meetinghouse was erected between the Mills and Corner Village. This church organization was tried sorely in 1843, during the Miller excitement. The Second Advent lecturers were permitted the use of the church in which to hold their meetings; the inside walls were hung with great charts, some covered with figures by which it was shown, in various ways that the dreams of Daniel, the prophet, and the visions of John, the evangelist, all pointed to 1843 as the time when the world should be no more. Other charts were covered with paintings of monstrous and frightful dragons. These, aided by sensational lectures, and it was no wonder that Elder Weston raised a storm of excitement. The spell was broken by the theft of the charts which were later destroyed, and the town became itself once more.

Pastors of the Baptist Church since 1885 have been: Rev. J. H. Gannett, who remained until about 1892; Rev. Arthur Locke, who was the next pastor, 1893-7; Rev. E. W. Potter, 1898-1905; Rev. B. R. Harris, 1906, who is the present pastor.

Free Baptist.

The Free Baptists of Bradford built a church in the Howlet neighborhood, known as the "Bush" meetinghouse. Elder Holmes preached for the society about the year 1841. Elder Jonathan Rowe and Elder Isaac Peaslee of Sutton have preached here also. The church flourished for a number of years.

The Union Church or "Pond" meetinghouse was erected a few years after the completion of the Free Baptist meetinghouse by voluntary subscriptions, principally by Moses Colby, of men of various beliefs, with the understanding that the house was not to be locked and that it was to be free to any one who wished to preach.

SCHOOL ITEMS.

In 1789, it was voted to divide the districts for schooling the same as for highway work.

In 1790, it was voted to raise eight pounds for schooling; in 1792, twelve pounds, and thirty pounds to build schoolhouses in the different districts. "Voted that each district should be centered." In 1793, fifteen pounds were appropriated for schooling, fifteen pounds for finishing the schoolhouses; in 1797, it was voted "to raise 40 pounds for schooling." In 1799, it was "Voted that there shall be a new district for schooling where Capt. Eaton lives.

History of Hopkinton

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

Hopkinton, a township of 26,967 acres, is located in the southern part of Merrimack County, and is bounded on the west by Henniker, on the north by Warner and Webster, on the east by Concord, and on the south by Bow, Dunbarton and Weare. The surface is irregular, but undulating, traversed by widely extended hills, with tracts of interval and meadow land. The soil is well adapted to agriculture, and for the most part fertile. The Contoocook River flows through the town, receiving in its course the tributary streams known as Warner and Blackwater rivers; and there are a few lesser streams which, after flowing through the town, empty into the Merrimac at Concord.

There are also several natural ponds in the town, Smith's near the center, and Clement's and Clough's ponds in the northwest.

The principal elevations are Putney's, Gould's and Beach hills, and the view, showing, on a clear day, a prospect of almost every section of the State, is widely known and admired.

Hopkinton is principally a rural town and most of the people are engaged in the pursuits of agriculture, though it is becoming rapidly an important manufacturing locality.

The principal villages are Hopkinton, Contoocook and West Hopkinton.

EARLY PROPRIETARY AND SETTLEMENT.

The township of Hopkinton was granted by Massachusetts, Jan. 16, 1736, to John Jones and others of Hopkinton, Mass., and received the name of No. 5, and later, New Hopkinton.

Township No. 5 was one of a line of townships extending from Rumford (now Concord) on the Merrimack River to the Great Falls, on the Connecticut. Each township was declared to be six miles square. The conditions imposed by the committee of the Massachusetts General Court upon those to whom the grant was made were as follows:

"There were to be sixty settlers in a township, bonded to the committee for the performance of certain conditions, so that each grantee built a dwelling house eighteen feet square, and of seven feet stud at the least on his lot, and fence in for plowing, or clear and stock to English grass, five acres of land within three years after being admitted to settlement; and the grantees together were to build and finish a suitable meeting-house, and settle a learned and orthodox minister within the same number of years. In every sense of the term, settlements were to be actual."

In accordance with these conditions the proprietors of No. 5 held a meeting at the tavern of James Morris, in Hopkinton, Mass., February 14, 1737. Capt. John Jones was chosen moderator; Chas. Morris, clerk; Ebenezer Kimball, treasurer.

The township by this time had probably been surveyed and located; but the grantee's lots had not been established. On the thirty-first of May, 1737, a gratuity of five pounds each was voted to Daniel Claflin and Richard Potter provided that they settle before winter. Tradition has it that Potter was the first of the grantees to begin operations in the new territory.

John Jones, John Jeffards, Henry Mellen, Ebenezer Locke, Elias Haven, Jacob Gibbs, James Lock, John Brewer, James Nutt, Josiah Watkins, Thomas Mellon, Thomas Bixbe, Richard Potter, Rev. Mr. Sam'l Barret, David Fauster, Nat'l Haven, Thomas Walker, Henry Walker, Cabel Claflin, Charles Morris, Jason Walker, John Bower, Elisha Haden, Ebenezer Coller, Samuel Streater, Joseph Coller, Matthew Taft, John Walker, John Weston, Nat'l Smith, David Burnap, Edmund Bowker, Eleazer Gile, Daniel Mellen, James Morris, Joseph Haven, David Woodwell, Matthew Lackey, Robert Claflin, Joseph Gould, James Wilson, Daniel Claflin, Mark Whitney, Joshua Claflin, John Quarles, Eben'r Claflin, Jedediah Haven, Benj'a Carril, Paul Langdon, George Simpson Jones, Jabez Potter, Daniel Claflin, Jr., Cornelius Claflin, Ebenezer Kimball, Isaac Whitney—60.

About the year 1740, several emigrants from Hopkinton, Mass., took up their residence here and commenced the settlement. They were early subjected to grievous hardships and trials, of which the Indian wars were the principal cause. In the constant state of peril in which the frontier towns were kept by the French and the savages, the settlers found their daily occupations, the cultivation of the soil, etc., a hazardous task.

In anticipation of attacks by Indians three garrison houses were built in the settlement, Kimball's, Putney's and Woodwell's. The first was located about a mile from the present village of Hopkinton, on the road to Rumford (Concord), and was erected by Aaron and Jeremiah Kimball. The second stood upon the top of Putney's Hill and was built by Samuel and John Putney. The third was located about a half mile from the present village of Contoocook, in the north part of the town and was constructed by David Woodwell.

The settlement struggled through the years of uncertainty and dread, though some of the proprietors no doubt transferred their interests, and some returned to Massachusetts. During the French and Indian war which began in 1744, the inhabitants were compelled to abandon their homes; and the settlement, one historian says, was not resumed until the war was over. Just how long the settlers remained away is uncertain.

On the 22d of April, 1746, six Indians, fully armed, assaulted Woodwell's garrison house, and having succeeded in gaining entrance, took eight persons prisoners—namely, David Woodwell, his wife, two sons, Benjamin and Thomas, his daughter Mary, and Samuel Burbank, and his two sons, Caleb and Jonathan. They were surprised while asleep. Mr. Woodwell and three children returned to Boston under a flag of truce. Mary Woodwell was held captive three years, and was then redeemed, after spending six months with the French at Montreal, waiting for a passport. Mrs. Woodwell and Samuel Burbank died in captivity. Jonathan Burbank was redeemed, but was killed afterwards by the Indians, who mistook him for the famous Robert Rogers.

Mary Woodwell, in 1755, married Jesse Corbett of Uxbridge, Mass., and settled with her husband in this township on the scene of the attack and capture of 1746. In 1759, Mr. Corbett was drowned in the Warner River, or Almsbury River as it was called at that time.

In 1761, his widow married Jeremiah Fowler, who died in 1802, and the twice bereaved widow immediately joined the Shaker community at Canterbury, where in 1829, she died in the one hundredth year of her age.

On the 10th of November, 1746, a Mr. Estabrooks of No. 5 was killed by Indians about a mile from the present Main street, Concord, while returning from Rumford where he had gone to obtain the medical service of Dr. Ezra Carter.

It is related of Abraham Kimball, who was the son of Jeremiah Kimball, and the first white child born in No. 5, that on the 13th of April, 1753, while on his way from Kimball's garrison to that of the Putney's, he was taken prisoner by the savages, and with him Samuel Putney. The affair took place on the eastern slope of Putney's Hill, not far from the Putney garrison house. About three days after the capture, while the Indians were in the vicinity of Contoocook (Boscawen) they were surprised by the famous Indian hunter, named Flanders, and fled, with the result that both captives escaped, one of them through the sagacious assistance of a dog who seized an Indian just as he was about to kill the captive.

Another source of vexation and trouble to the proprietors of No. 5 was the Masonian claim, whereby the descendants of Captain Mason came into possession of the township in this section, and by whom they were sold to twelve prominent men of Portsmouth and vicinity, who were styled the Masonian Proprietors. The purchase price was £1,500. The new proprietors made regrants upon favorable and reasonable terms, reserving usually fifteen rights for themselves, and on the 30th of November, 1750, Henry Mellen and others were granted this township. This grant occasioned considerable perplexity with the proprietors of Bow, and the complications known as the Bow Controversy. This was in a sense a conflict of Colonial governments, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, Bow having been granted by the government of New Hampshire and this township by the authorities of Massachusetts Bay. The dispute was concerning the boundary line between the townships, each claiming a wedge-shaped section in the southeast part of this township, the apex of which lay very near the present village of Hopkinton.

On the 13th of December, 1763, an act of the New Hampshire Legislature joined the following persons and their estates to the "District of New Hampshire," and by that act acknowledged the validity of their claim as residents of the disputed territory of No. 5: Abel Kimball, Timothy Kimball, Timothy Clements, Eliphalet Colby, Green French, John Chadwick, Abraham Kimball, Jeremiah Kimball, James Kimball, Moses Straw, Jonathan Straw, John Eastman, William Peters, Hezekiah Foster, Jeremiah Kimball, Jr., Thomas Jewett, Reuben Kimball, Daniel Watson, Obadiah Perry, Joshua Bailey, John Kimball, John Jewett, Parker Flanders, Isaac Colby, Thomas Hoitt, Widow Susanna Kimball.

The "Bow Controversy" was settled by the charter of incorporation of Hopkinton, granted January 11, 1765.

The first framed house in town was built, perhaps near Kimball's garrison. The ancient Rowell house on Putney Hill, near the site of Putney's garrison, was built for the Rev. James Scales, the first minister of the town.

Prior to its incorporation as a town Hopkinton's political privileges were limited. It had a representative at the General Court, however. October 23, 1738, a committee was appointed to present the votes of the proprietors at the seat of provincial government, of which the members were Isaac Whitney, Thomas Walker and Ebenezer Goddard. The township first became a part of New Hampshire in 1740. Local meetings were called by special committees. The members of the first were Jacob Gibbs and Charles Morris. The first meeting called in the new territory was by Joseph Haven. Isaac Whitney and Thomas Walker.

In 1761, the inhabitants of No. 5 paid the selectmen of Boscawen five pounds for taking the inventory, as they could not do it legally themselves before the incorporation of the town.

In 1766, a vote was passed to build a boat in the Contoocook River for the accommodation of people passing between New Amesbury (Warren) and Hopkinton, "Said boat to be as large as Deacon Merrill's boat in Concord." In 1772, an appropriation of thirty pounds was made for a bridge across the Contoocook. The same year also, the town obtained possession of two lots of land where the people had buried their dead, and immediately public legal cemeteries were established.

In the meantime action had been taken for the establishment of schools and also for the promotion of the religious welfare of the community, and Hopkinton was soon on the way to great prosperity and to a larger development and growth.

INCORPORATION.

Hopkinton was incorporated as a town by the New Hampshire Legislature, January 10, 1765, and the act approved by the council and consented to by Governor Wentworth the following day.

As early as 1757 there had been agitation for a legal incorporation of the town, and Oct. 27th of that year a petition for incorporation was addressed to the governor and council and signed by the following persons, probably the leading men of the town, whose names are given here to show what families were in the early settlement: "Samuel Pudney, Joseph Eastman, Aaron Kimball, Joseph Pudney, Enoch Eastman, John Pudney, Daniel Anis, Caleb Burbank, Peter How, Joseph Ordway, Matthew Stanley, Abraham Colbe, David Woodwell, Joseph Eastman, Jr., John Chadwick, John Ordway, John Burbank, Jonathan How."

At the time of the incorporation of Hopkinton there were probably not more than a few hundred residents in the town.

The first selectmen of the incorporate town were Captain Matthew Stanley, Ensign Jonathan Straw, and Sergt. Isaac Chandler.

In 1772, in consequence of the incorporation of the County of Hillsborough, of which Hopkinton was a part until 1823, it became necessary for the provincial authorities of New Hampshire to enact that the portion of Hopkinton formerly claimed by Bow should be severed from Rockingham County, of which Bow once formed a part, and annexed to the County of Hillsborough.

MILITARY HISTORY.

The military records of Colonial New Hampshire during the period of the French and Indian wars, contain the names of the following men all or most of whom probably were residents of No. 5:

Joseph Eastman (probably of Rumford), Stephen Hoyt, Matthew Stanley, Ebenezer Eastman, Joseph Putney, John Annis, Enoch Eastman, John Burbank, William Peters, Nathaniel Smith, Sampson Colby, Isaac Chandler, Thomas Merrill, Samuel Barrett, James Lock, John Nutt, John Jones, Thomas Eastman.

Revolutionary War.

Hopkinton, almost to a man, was loyal to the cause of Independence and did her part bravely and faithfully at home and in the field, giving up the lives of a number of her sons that the great victory of freedom might be won.

The following soldiers in Capt. Gorden Hutchins' company at Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775, were Hopkinton men: Nathaniel Clement, Abraham Kimball, Wm. Darling, Thos. Matthews and Jonathan Judkins. The residence of John Gordon, Elisha Corliss, Nath. Perkins and Mica Flanders is in doubt, but some of these men probably were from Weare.

The majority of the Hopkinton men at Bunker Hill were enrolled in Capt. Isaac Baldwin's company. Capt. Baldwin was of Hillsborough and was killed in action, the command falling to Lieut. John Hale of this town, who served as leader of the following men: Second Lieut. Stephen Hoyt, Sergt. Moses Kimball, Corps. Moses Bailey, Moses Connor, Reuben Kimball and Moses Darling, Moses Trussell, who lost his arm, John Putney, Samuel Hildreth, Peter Howe, Timothy Clements, Daniel Cressy, Joseph Putney, Clifford Chase, Richard Straw, Thomas Eastman, Thomas Hills, Benjamin Stanley, John Stanley, Enoch Eastman. Caleb Smart, also, was at Bunker Hill, in Stark's regiment, and was wounded.

The following privates were enlisted August 2, 1775, and served under Capt. John Parker of Litchfield, in the northern campaign: Samuel Smith, John T. Connor, Ebenezer Collins, James Judkins, David Clough, Jedediah Jewett, Daniel Murray, Joseph Stanley.

Lieut. Nathaniel Hutchins and a private named Carr were in Capt. Henry Dearborn's company in Col. Benedict Arnold's regiment on the expedition against Quebec in 1775. In the latter part of 1775, thirty-one companies of soldiers were sent from New Hampshire to reinforce General Sullivan at Charlestown. The officers of the Twentieth Company were Timothy Clements, Hopkinton, captain; Joseph Chandler, first lieutenant; Amos Gould, second lieutenant.

The following men enlisted in Col. Pierce Long's regiment Aug. 8, 1776, and served 121 days: Capt. Timothy Clements, Sergt. Moses Darling, Daniel Blaisdell, Isaac Clements.

Lieut. Nathaniel Hutchins, who belonged to this regiment, was promoted to the rank of captain, and in the spring of 1777, recruited a company and joined Col. Joseph Cilley's regiment in April. Capt. Hutchins retired from service in January, 1781.

The following soldiers were enlisted into the Continental service generally for a period of three years. The enlistments began early in 1777, by the authority of Col. Stickney.

In Scammel's regiment in Capt. Daniel Livermore's company were Sergt. Samuel Smith, Joseph Bickford (died June 20, 1778), B. Sargent, Samuel Judkins; in Cilley's regiment, in Capt. James Gregg's company: Ebenezer Blaisdell, Jr. (died Aug. 15, 1777); in Capt. Hutchins' company: Sergt. Eben Collins (wounded October 7, at Stillwater, and died Oct. 26, 1777), Sergt. John Chadwick, Moses Colby, Daniel Creasy, John Eastman (killed July 8, 1777, at Hubbardton), James Edgerly, William Hodgkins, Jonathan Judkins, Samuel Stocker, Enoch Hoyt, David Smith (died Aug. 4, 1778), Caleb Smart, Elijah Smart, Jonathan Sawyer, Benjamin Williams, Joseph Eastman (died Oct. 30, 1777, at Saratoga).

The following men were with Capt. Joshua Bailey of this town, at Bennington. They were enlisted July 20, 1777, and discharged at Stillwater Sept. 20th of that year: Quartermaster Joseph Stanley, Second Lieut. Timothy Farnum, Second Sergt. Joshua Gile, Fourth Sergt. Peter Howe, First Corp. John Burbank, Fourth Corp. Ebenezer Eaton, Christopher Gould, Richard Smith, Samuel Howe, David Howe, Jonathan Straw, Jr., Stephen Harriman, Jr., Jonathan Hunt, Josiah Corbet, Moses Emerson, Moses Jones, Daniel French, Abraham (severely wounded), Caleb Burbank, Ebenezer Rider.

The following men were enrolled in Capt. Hale's company, Col. Henry Gerrish's regiment, called out to reinforce Gen. Gates, enlisted in August, 1777; they performed twenty-eight days' service: Capt. John Hale, Sergt. Daniel Flanders, Corp. Jacob Straws, Jonathan Chase, Stephen Hoit, Philip Greeley, Jacob Hoit, Nathan Sargent, Richard Carr Rogers, Joseph Chadwick, Moses Hills, Thomas Hills, Samuel Farrington, David Fellows, Joseph Corbett, Enoch Long, David Kimball, Moses Burbank.

The following men enlisted in Capt. Joshua Bailey's, and served twenty-five days in August and September, 1778, in Rhode Island: Lieut. Thomas Rowell, Sergt. Moses Darling, Sergt. Abner Chase, Corp. Reuben Kimball, Corp. Levi Hildreth, Oliver Dow, Moses Hills, Joseph Hastings, Samuel Hoit, Jacob Choat, Jonathan Straw, Ezekiel Straw, Timothy Darling, David Kimball, Samuel Chase, Richard Smith, Wm. Putney, Timothy Farnum, David Howe, William Barnard, Joshua Morse, John Clement, William Ayres, Moses Clark, Joseph Currier, Moses Clement, Jacob Tucker, Ezekiel Goodwin, Ira Waldron. They were in the regiment of Col. Moses Kelley of Goffstown. Corp. John S. Farnham enlisted May 5, 1779; John Eaton and Timothy Farnham, April 5, 1781; they served several months. Benj. Creasy, claimed by Henniker, was in the service nearly a year.

The following men were drawn from and for Hopkinton, enlisted before or during 1781, and distributed among different Continental regiments: Sergt. Isaac Clements (died December, 1780), Richard Smith, Ebenezer Dustin, David Howe, Daniel Eaton, Alvaro Currier, Moses Chase, Jonathan Howe, Daniel Stickney, Moses Flanders, Benj. Quimby, Samuel Howe, Ephraim Hildreth.

Other Hopkinton men engaged in the war were: Abram Currier, Samuel French, Michael Stocker, John Robinson, Moses Flanders, Benj. Flanders, Daniel Kimball, Stephen Putney, Jeremiah Tyler, Wm. Stocker, Isaac Walker. Capt. Jonathan Straw was at Cambridge in 1775.

War of 1812.

The First Regiment of New Hampshire Infantry, commanded by Col. Aquilla Davis of Warner, went into camp at Concord early in February, 1813, and early in the spring marched to Burlington, Vt., prepared for service on the northern frontier. On the way to Burlington this regiment marched through Hopkinton. The following Hopkinton men were in the regiment: Thomas Bailey, drum-major, and in Capt. Joseph Smith's company, Jeremiah Silver (musician), Charles Colby, Zadoc Dow, Stephen G. Eaton, Moses C. Eaton, David Hardy, James Hastings, Richard Hunt, Isaiah Hoyt, Ezra Jewell, John Morrill, Samuel G. Titcomb, all of whom enlisted Feb. 1, 1813. Moses (?) Eastman, Amri Foster, James Hastings and Samuel Straw were in Capt. Elisha Smith's company. Eastman died in the service.

In Capt. Benj. Bradford's company in Col. McCobb's regiment from Maine were the following men, some of whom had been volunteers in the First N. H. Regiment (disbanded) residents of Hopkinton: Corp. Isaiah Hoyt, Corp. S. G. Eaton, Jonathan Burbank, Henry T. Hildreth, James A. Hastings, John Morrill, Benj. Putney (died in the service), Buswell Silver, Moses Tenney.

During the winter of 1813 and 1814 the operations of the British off the Atlantic coast created much alarm.

On the night of June 21, 1814, an alarm at Portsmouth, occasioned by a report that the British were landing at Rye, induced the governor of New Hampshire to order out detachments from twenty-three regiments for the defence of Portsmouth, when they were organized into a brigade of five regiments and one battalion under the command of Brig.-Gen. Montgomery.

The following men of Hopkinton were in Lieut.-Col. Fisk's First Regiment, in Capt. Bean's company: First Lieut. Thomas Town, acting quartermaster from Sept. 18th; Sergt. Moses Gould, Robert A. Bradley, Samuel Burbank, Barrach Cass, David C.

Currier, Amos Eastman, John J. Emerson, Ebenezer Morrill, John Morey, Isaac Pearce, Hazen Putney, Jacob Straw, William Wheeler. They enlisted for ninety days.

The following men were in Capt. Call's company of Lieut.-Col. Steele's Second Regiment: Sergt. Nathaniel Morgan, Jacob Chase, Amos Frye, John Johnson, John Hastings, Alvin Hastings, Francis Stanley, James Eastman, Amos Sawyer, Jonathan Gove, Wm. M. Crillis and John Burnham. These men were enlisted for short periods in 1814. Stanley died in the service. None of the men from this town at Portsmouth were called into active engagement with the enemy.

War of the Rebellion.

The outbreak of the Civil War found the citizens of Hopkinton ready and willing to sacrifice themselves to preserve the American Union. Many of them were called upon for service at the front and very many of them lost their lives in the service of their country. If you read the report of the adjutant general for the four long years of the war, and see after the names of so many Hopkinton men the words: "Killed in action," "Severely wounded," "Missing in action," "Died in prison," or "Of disease," you immediately learn if you did not know before, why the people of Hopkinton reverence and love the men, both living and dead, who followed the standards that rest with torn and tattered folds in the State House at Concord, as mementos of bloodshed and suffering, and of a mighty victory ultimately won.

Second N. H. Regiment: E. W. Boutwell, Proctor Collins, Hiram Cutler, J. N. Danforth, C. H. Danforth, John S. Daniels, Second Lieut. Chas. W. Dimond, Levi W. Dimond, James Foster, Wm. H. Foster, Wm. H. Goodrich, A. S. Hastings, Second Lieut. Chas. Holmes, promoted to Capt. in 17th U. S. Infantry, Francis S. Hoyt, B. K. Jones, L. D. Jones, W. H. Kempton, Sergt. Chas. A. Milton, promoted to medical cadet, Second Lieut. Wm. Montgomery, Capt. Frank W. Morgan, Timothy G. Moores, F. H. Nichols, Lucius P. Noyes, Col. Joab N. Patterson, Capt. Samuel F. Patterson, Sergt. Thos. W. Piper, John C. Rand, Lewis N. Relation, Martin P. Rowell, Abram G. Rowell, John G. Rowell, Adoniram J. Sawyer, Corp. Jas. B. Silver, Geo. H. Straw, Henry C. Tyler, Moses C. Tyler, Chas. Tyler, Richard A. Walker.

Sixth N. H. Regiment: Jas. M. Hook, Chas. H. Smart.

Seventh N. H. Regiment: Herman Burt, L. H. Chandler, Capt. Jas. M. Chase, Capt. G. A. Gurtice, Chas. B. Danforth, First Sergt. G. F. Dustin, Sergt. Jonas Foster, Thos. Heath, Warren E. Kimball, Warren Lewis, Edmund C. Lewis, Jos. C. Lewis, Warren F. Locke, Chas. A. Morrill, Jos. C. Relation, Corp. Onville Upton.

Eighth N. H. Regiment: Jas. F. Mills, Asst. Surgeon Chas. A. Moulton.

Thirteenth N. H. Regiment: Geo. W. Nichols.

Fourteenth N. H. Regiment: Corp. Geo. M. Barnard, Capt. Geo. F. Blanchard, Henry H. Blanchard, S. G. Bradbury, Geo. O. Colby, Daniel Downing, Moses K. Eaton, Corp. A. T. Goodrich, David Harrington, Hiram Nichols.

Sixteenth N. H. Regiment: Chas. Ash, Sergt. Augustus Barnard, Musician Otis M. Brown, Orrin Chase, Geo. E. Crowell, Geo. A. Currier, Ira K. Dimond, Eben H. Dustin, H. D. Emerson, Capt. D. E. Howard, Byron E. Kempton, Corp. Thos. Kenniston, Chas. N. Kezar, Benj. Long, N. G. McAlpine (wagoner), Geo. McKenzie, Corp. Geo. W. Mills, Jas. F. Mills, J. M. Morrill, Henry E. Moulton, Edw. G. Runnels, Horace Smart, Geo. W. Smart, B. B. Weeks, Wm. H. Weeks, N. C. Weeks, musician, Jacob Whittier.

Eighteenth N. H. Regiment: David M. Chase, Edw. F. Chase, Corp. Hiram Cutler, Corp. Chas. F. Harrington, Capt. Clarion Marshall, Corp. Timothy G. Moores, Musician John F. Mudgett, Frank Stevens, Corp. Moses C. Tyler, Musician Edson Upton, Musician Barlow Upton.

First N. H. Cavalry: Alonzo Burbank, Wm. H. Downing, John H. Kimball, Byron E. Kempton.

First N. H. H. Artillery: Samuel E. Crowell, Corp. H. D. Emerson, Geo. W. Mills, Jos. P. Morrill, Sergt. A. J. Sawyer, Fred'k P. Scott, Horace Smart, Wm. S. Smart, Corp. Geo. H. Straw, Barlow Upton, Sergt. Geo. N. Watkins.

First U. S. Sharpshooters: Geo. N. Watkins.

Second U. S. Sharpshooters: Henry H. Crowell, Corp. G. K. Crowell, L. E. Crowell, Wm. H. Goodrich, Clarion H. Kimball, Jos. P. Law, Joseph Mills, Alfred A. Rollins, Corp. Jos. S. Thompson, Chas. F. Whittier.

Other Hopkinton Soldiers: Fred'k G. Sanborn, 5th Me.; Sergt. H. E. Clough, 1st Mass.; Lieut. Edgar Clough, 24th Mass.; Ezra Folsom, 2d Mass. Light Battery: Jonathan G. Emerson, 11th Mass.; Sergt. Jos. B. Dustin, 142d Illinois.

CHURCHES.

At the first meeting of the Masonian Proprietors after the grant it was voted, "That when the families are settled, the proprietors will maintain preaching."

The First Church in Hopkinton was organized Nov. 13, 1757, with the following members: James Scales, David Woodwell, Aaron Kimball, Jonathan Straw, William Peters, Joseph Eastman, Jr., Peter How, Abraham Colebe, Matthew Stanley, Enoch Eastman. William Peters became the first deacon. The same month of the organization of the church, the first pastor, Rev. James Scales, was ordained. The ordination took place at Putney's garrison, the place of regular worship. A meetinghouse lot and a minister's lot had already been located, but neither a meetinghouse or, probably, a parsonage had yet been built. The ancient Rowell house on Putney's Hill was afterwards erected for Mr. Scales.

The Rev. Mr. Scales was a native of Roxford, Mass., a graduate of Harvard in 1733, a settler in Rumford in 1737, and teacher of the first school taught in that town. He was soon afterward licensed to preach and was the first minister at Canterbury. He came from that town to Hopkinton, and was the pastor of the church here from 1757 to 1770.

The first meetinghouse was built in 1766, at an expense of five hundred pounds (old tenor). It was a town institution, and the people as a whole were interested in its location, erection and management. It was intended to locate it near the geographical center of the town, and the "meetinghouse" and "minister's" lots were laid out on Putney's Hill, where the parsonage was erected, but circumstances located the business center of the town near the site of the present village of Hopkinton, and it was at that place that the church was erected. The meetinghouse soon became a source of dispute, and the subject of a new location was discussed. A serious controversy was the result, finally being decided by a committee who passed the resolution that the meetinghouse remain in its present location. Three days after the presentation of the report of the committee, a young man set fire to the building, and it was totally destroyed. The controversy then revived afresh. At least four sites were proposed as locations for the church, and it was voted, finally, to refer the matter to an out-of-town committee, a selectman from each of the towns, Gilmanton, Linesborough, and Washington. The committee recommended the spot where the old edifice had stood, and in that way the controversy was practically settled. A new church was promptly erected on the old site.

During the period after the fire of 1789 when there was no meetinghouse the society worshipped in Benjamin Wiggin's barn.

The second pastor of the church was Rev. Elijah Fletcher, 1773-1786. On the 25th of February, 1789, the Rev. Jacob Cram, the third minister of the town, was ordained, the ceremony taking place in the open air, on a platform erected for the purpose.

The Congregational Church ceased to be under the special patronage of the town about 1811.

The present pastor of the church is Rev. L. Ellms.

Pastors since 1885: Revs. E. F. Farrell, until about 1887; M. W. Adams, 1887-9; T. C. H. Bouton, 1890-4; O. G. McIntire, 1895-6; J. S. Curtis, 1897-1901; L. Ellms, 1902.

Baptists.

The Baptist Church in Hopkinton was formed in 1769, and gathered by Dr. Hezekial Smith. It was a branch of the Haverhill, Mass., church, until it became independent in 1771. A first meetinghouse was partially completed in 1795. It stood about a mile southwest of Hopkinton village. It separated from the State Association on account of a laxness of doctrine, for a time, but in 1822 Rev. Michael Carlton became its pastor, and rallied the Calvinistic element, by which it has since been identified. In 1831, a new Baptist Church was built.

The present pastor is Rev. F. J. Franklyn, who came about a year ago.

Pastors since 1885: W. E. Waterbury, 1886-8; H. E. Thayer, 1889-94; J. W. Tingley, 1895; S. Sanderson, 1896-9; J. W. Trugley, 1900-4; Victor Morse, 1908.

Episcopal.

An Episcopal Church was formed in Hopkinton in 1803. It was known as Christ's Church, and the society worshipped in the court house.

In 1827, a new organization known as St. Andrew's Church was formed. The same year, the erection of a church was begun, and in 1828, the edifice was dedicated. Since 1885, the pastors have been: Rev. R. A. Benton, Rev. C. A. Morrill, and the present pastor of the church, the Rev. T. J. Drumm, who has been here nearly twenty years.

Free Baptist.

The Free Baptist Church in Hopkinton, organized at Contoocook in 1823, as the result of a schism in the original Baptist Church. The Free-Will Baptist movement was inspired by Deacon Jonathan Fowler, son, by her second husband, of Mary Woodwell, who was carried off as a captive by the Indians after the attack on Woodwell's garrison.

The Free Baptist meetinghouse was erected in 1827, and the society prospered for many years.

Pastors of the Contoocook Baptist Society since 1885: Revs. E. C. Quint, until about 1886; O. T. Lovejoy; F. H. Lyford, N. C. Lothrop, 1891-several years; C. E. Hurd, L. E. Hall, 1899-1900; G. H. Griffin, 1901; N. C. Lothrop, 1902-5; W. A. Paige, 1906-present pastor.

Swedenborgian.

The Swedenborgian Church in Contoocook was organized in 1857, as a result of the missionary activity of the Rev. Abiel Silver, a native of this town, and the congregation occupied the old Union or Universalist house built in 1837.

Pastors since 1885: Revs. Chas. Hardon, Manfred Lilliefors, J. B. Spiers, G. S. Ward, who came about 1905 and remained a year or two.

Methodists.

In the early part of last century there was an active Methodist Society in Hopkinton village, and worship was held in the academy. Preaching was in part supplied by students of the Biblical Institute at Concord. The society ceased active work about 1850.

The Methodist Church at Contoocook was organized in 1871.

The present pastor is Rev. A. W. Frye, who came about the year 1906.

Methodist pastors since 1885: Revs. N. W. Bailey; R. T. Wolcott; E. S. Coller, 1889-90; Frank A. Tyler, 1891-2; G. M. Williams, 1893; J. M. Beane, 1894-5; Wm. Carter, 1896-7; Wm. Thompson, 1898-9; J. G. Cairns, about 1900-1902; M. Tisdale, 1903-5; A. W. Frye, 1906.

Universalists.

The Universalists had an active foothold in Hopkinton in its most prosperous period. In 1836, a small meetinghouse was erected in the west part of the town, and in 1837, a second church was erected at Contoocook. There appears to have been no regular church membership at either. The Rev. J. F. Witherel, a resident Universalist minister at Contoocook, in company with Rev. J. Sargent of Sutton, published the "Universalist Family Visitor," for a time. It was a monthly periodical, the first number of which was issued in April, 1841.

About 1803, a "West Congregational" meetinghouse was built at Campbell's Corner, but no regular society seems to have been formed. The church stood but a few years. In 1834, Deacon Amos Bailey, of West Hopkinton, left a legacy to be paid to any Congregational society worshipping in the west part of Hopkinton. A society was organized with headquarters at Contoocook, but it does not appear legally that Contoocook was in the part of the town implied in the bequest. The Second Congregational Society kept up a nominal existence until about 1851.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT.

Hopkinton, in the earlier days of its history, can hardly be termed a manufacturing town, but in the days of its greatest prosperity there were many mills of various kinds within the town. The most important of these were at Contoocook, where for many years, Joab & David N. Patterson (brothers) manufactured woolens. Abram Brown and John Burnham manufactured lumber, and ground corn and grain. Hamilton E. Perkins also manufactured lumber. There were numerous small works at Contoocook. In 1859, there were one grist mill and six saw mills in the town.

The division of railroad extending from Contoocook to Hillsborough, a distance of fifteen miles, was built by Joseph Barnard, of Hopkinton, in 1849.

In later years many industries, principally of a minor character, were in town, among them a machine shop, a grist mill, a hub factory, and a lumber mill on the water power at Contoocook, and a kit and pail manufactory run by steam; also a kit-mill and hub-factory at West Hopkinton.

In 1873, a disastrous fire inflicted grave damage upon the manufacturing interests of Contoocook, as it destroyed all the works on the south side of the river. In 1883, Col. Edwin C. Bailey, owner of the Contoocook water power, built a new dam across the river.

EDUCATIONAL ACCOUNT.

One of the conditions of the grant by the Masonian Proprietors to the settlers was that "One whole share in the said four-fifths'' (of the township allotted to the settlers) ''was to be set off for the use of a school forever.''

In 1766, it was voted to have two schools in town. In 1768, it was decided to build two school ''housen''—but this act was afterwards rescinded. The interest in education, however, progressed and in 1784, a provision was made for dividing the town ''into eight parts for schooling.''

In the days of its early growth and prosperity Hopkinton took a great and worthy interest in education and the maintenance of public instruction. Select tuitional schools, too, were taught frequently in the old court house. Perhaps the most famous of these was that of about twenty-five years duration, taught by Mr. John O. Ballard,and later with the assistance of his son, Rev. Edward Ballard, a prominent Episcopal clergyman of Brunswick, Maine.

Hopkinton Academy was established in 1827. The following is the first board of trustees: Ebenezer Lerned, president; Abram Brown, Stephen Sibley, Matthew Harvey, Phineas Clough, Roger C. Hatch, Michael Carlton. The old court house was remodeled and its upper story reconstructed for the use of the academy. The first term of school began in May, and Hopkinton Academy was incorporated on the 26th of the next June. The first teacher was George Reck, who remained but a short time. The faculty for the following fall term were: Jeremiah Russell, A.B., preceptor; Mr. Jeremiah Gates, assistant preceptor; Mr. Luther Cross, lecturer on chemistry. The total number of students was seventy-three.

In 1843, the academy, after enjoying a number of years of popularity and success, experienced a reverse because of a financial deficit. In 1851, however, the school took a new lease of life, and a new charter was secured; but the institution succumbed to modern educational changes, and finally in March, 1873, was burned. This town at the present time has excellent schools.

PROFESSIONAL MEN.

Lawyers.

The first resident lawyer in Hopkinton was probably Baruch Chase, who came to this town in 1785. He was county solicitor from 1808 to 1817. He was an uncle of the noted Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase. He died March 5, 1841, at the age of seventy-seven.

Another early lawyer was John Harris, a native of Harvard, Mass., and a graduate of Harvard College in 1791. He read law in Massachusetts and came to this town in 1794. He was the first postmaster of Hopkinton, 1811-1825. In 1816, he was a trustee of Dartmouth College. He was county solictor, judge of probate, associate justice of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire and held other important offices. He was a prominent Free-Mason and the founder of Trinity Chapter in 1807.

Samuel Greene, too, practiced law here in the early days of the town. He was a native of Concord, read law with his brother Peter, and began practice in Concord in 1783. He came to Hopkinton about 1833, and remained until about 1837. He was associate justice of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire 1819-1840.

Matthew Harvey was a native of Sutton, a graduate of Dartmouth in 1806, studied law with John Harris, Esq., was admitted to the bar in 1809, and opened an office in Hopkinton. He held many important offices during his active career, among them, U. S. congressman, president of the N. H. Senate, U. S. district judge, and in 1830, governor of the State of New Hampshire. He died at Concord in 1866, at the age of eighty-five years.

Horace Chase was a native of Unity, and a graduate of Dartmouth in 1814. He studied law with Matthew Harvey, Esq., opened an office in Goshen in 1818, and returned to Hopkinton 1821, forming a partnership with Mr. Harvey. Many offices came to him and he became a leading citizen. He died March 1, 1875.

Since these men were in practice here Hopkinton has had several able lawyers who have become important in their profession, and kept up the worthy record of the early men.

Lawyers since 1885: H. Green, C. G. Hawthorn.

Physicians.

John Clement was the first public physician in Hopkinton and was a resident of Haverhill, Mass., before coming to this town. He was evidently a successful and popular physician, and his practice is said to have extended to fourteen towns.

Ebenezer Lerned, a native of Medford, Mass., graduated at Harvard in 1787, and received the medical degree from Dartmouth. He practised a short time in Leominster, Mass., and later came to Hopkinton where he practised medicine and was a merchant. He founded the N. H. Agricultural Society and was its president, and was vice-president of the N. H. Medical Society at the time of his death in 1831.

Since 1885, the physicians in Hopkinton have been: Alexander Rodgers, G. Powers, J. W. Wilson at Contoocook, G. C. Blaisdell at Contoocook, W. K. Wadleigh, W. P. Beauclerk, C. S. F. Whitcomb, who came about the year 1903, and is still in practice.

SOCIETIES AND ORGANIZATIONS.

In 1807 the branch of the Masonic order, known as Trinity Chapter, was formed, the second in priority in the State.

In 1825 Masonic Hall was dedicated. The chapter was transferred to Concord in 1847, and the hall was soon afterward moved to Fishersville (now Penacook).

A grange was organized in this town in 1875; a lodge of Odd Fellows in Contoocook in 1876; a lodge of Good Templars in Hopkinton in 1878; a Grand Army Post in Hopkinton in 1882; a Rebecca Degree Lodge in Contoocook in 1884.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Newspapers—In June, 1880, the "Hopkinton Times" a weekly newspaper, was started by H. Sumner Chase at Hopkinton village. In the fall of the same year the office was moved to Contoocook. In January, 1885, the paper was consolidated with the "Kearsage Independent" of Warner.

Libraries—The Contoocook Library was founded in 1871, the Hopkinton Village Library was established the same year.

Antiquarian Society—The New Hampshire Antiquarian Society was incorporated in 1875; headquarters at Contoocook.

Census of Hopkinton

NOTE—Where no Post Office address is given Hopkinton is understood. Other Post Offices are abbreviated thus: Contoocook—Cont'k; West Hopkinton—West; Concord—Conc'd. R. F. D. Routes are distinguished by the number of the route.
